Contemplating big deal with Fred Schweitzer. He's in the nut business. Services the machines which are located at strategic spots in this town and out of this town. Present time he restricts his sales to peanuts, but I am trying to get him to enlarge his business activities to include almonds. I'll let Morton or Leslie furnish the salt. He gives prompt service, is a home town boy, and I just figured it out that he was entitled to the business. If the almond crop is as big this year as it was last year I can supply him with nuts for a considerable part of the season. P. S.: I do not care for the "slug" patronage. Make it the e pluribus unum metal, or keep away from my almonds.

Every time I see a fellow approaching me with a brief case, I'm afraid he has something he wants me to sign, or something I have signed.

A case of implicit faith is called to my attention. Malcolm Macmurda sends from the Imperial valley section, in response to notification, Mexican silver pieces to the amount of one dollar, which was to cover an alleged promise. Malcolm sent the silver without knowing what obligation it was to satisfy. When he finds out he will recall the promise, and regret that he wasn't here to get a receipt for it. Besides Malcolm and the party with whom the arrangement was made, two other parties were involved. But they are of semi-omnipotent type, and he can find them in the valley.

And then there was the big business man who arrived at an annual meeting one hour late, but in time to indorse what the other executives had done without him.

From trade journal: Discussing the type of milk which should be supplied to school children, the chairman of the town's health committee said: "What this town needs is a supply of clean, fresh milk, and we should take the bull by the horns and demand it."

St. Valentine's day is approaching. Modernity has somewhat profaned the day from its original intent, when the custom of exchanging missives and tokens of love and affection predominated, having been handed down, it is believed, from the Roman festival of the Lupercalia, at which time the names of young women were placed in a box and drawn out by the young men as chance directed. The young men are still taking chances, but I often think the young women, more so.

Little food, which 'taint good, is said to have incapacitated Chet McDonald for a few days. He had ptomaine. That's why it 'taint good for him, or anybody else. He connected up with the wrong sand, which, and it 'taint funny, McGee."

Big business is not only recognizing there must be a coordination of departments, but a cooperative attitude. The final result is the assembled labor of the day. The quicker and more harmoniously that labor is performed the more effective the result, and the best result is what the organization wants and is entitled to. Synchronization is a real virtue, and every employee is a part of the system. Literature filtering in from public relations departments of big business indicates that it is striving for transparency.

And it remained for a Texas judge to become poetic about the orange industry. In his decision upholding the citrus marketing agreement, he included this gem: "Oranges that are runty, grapefruit that is small, must wait a little longer, and may not travel at all."

Donald Jordan of the Garden Grove schools brings in his history class, and with Braden Finch as pilot he tours The Journal office to unravel for the students the intricacies of newspaper making. The incident reminded me of the Scotchman who delayed the purchase of a geography until conditions became more settled. History is being made and unmade with great rapidity these days. Why, a fellow can't hardly tell in which country he's going to get his breakfast. But the group Donald

G-MEN FIND BODIES OF ROSS, GRAY

2 More 'Snatches' Laid To Confessed Killer

ST. PAUL, (P)—An amazing story of kidnappings, slayings and bank robberies attributed to Peter Anders, surly, swarthy former lumberjack, was related today after recovery of the bodies of Charles S. Ross, abducted Chicago manufacturer, and James Atwood Gray, from a cave deep in the Northern Wisconsin woods.

Whisking Anders back to St. Paul after a tortuous two-day foray into the frozen fastness of Minnesota and Wisconsin, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said nearly all of the $50,000 ransom paid in vain for Ross' release had been recovered.

The 30-year-old one-time logger in the Pacific Northwest detailed to each of numerous crimes in a confession covering thousands of words, said Hoover, adding that Anders had slain his accomplice, Gray, during an argument.

The FBI chief said Anders had confessed kidnapping John Borgia and his wife, Olivia, of Chicago, and robbing one Minnesota and three Wisconsin banks. The Borgia family, he said, was the Bor-

MOTHER SUES THREE SONS

A million-dollar estate left by the late Samuel Kraemer, Placencia rancher, became the center of a court battle today between his widow and three of her sons, who are executors.

The controversy, first indicated three weeks ago, when a claim was presented to the sons and rejected, came to light as Mrs. Angelina Kraemer, the widow, filed suit in superior court for $400,000 against the executors.

Named as defendants in the suit, filed late yesterday by R. Y. Williams and Charles Swanner, Santa Ana attorneys, are E. P. Kraemer, Arnold R. Kraemer and Gilbert U. Kraemer, executors of their father's estate, executors of which was appraised at $1,125,000.

The $400,000, which Mrs. Kraemer demands in cash, she alleges was held by her husband in trust and as agent for her, his share of royalties on oil land owned by the couple.

Mrs. Kraemer, she alleges, transferred to her husband a 207.73 acre ranch in the Yorba district, which she inherited from her father, Prudencio Yorba, and $16,000 she refused from sale of other property of her father's estate.

Her husband, she claims, then agreed to divide with her the proceeds of oil leases, which she alleges amounted to more than $1,500,000. He gave her as part payment, she said, the Angelina hotel in Anaheim, worth $63,000, and $20,000 in cash; but she alleges the $400,000 still is due her, and does not belong in the body of the estate.

She filed a claim for that amount with the three sons, but they rejected it and the law suit followed.

Motor Thief Halts Church Building

That "meanest man" is abroad again.

By his theft of an electric motor this week he virtually halted work in the modernization and building program of the Nazarene church.

The Rev. L. D. Meggers was doing the work himself, fitting out the basement of the church as a sanctuary and chapel, with borrowed materials and his own tools. The thief stole the motor to the Rev. Meggers' saw, and the work stopped. The Rev. Meggers hopes the thief will see the error of his ways and return the motor.

Dee Williamson, to whom Governor Merriam last night presented a medal for heroism in a Newport Bay rescue.

Governor Merriam was angry last night!

He went to the annual Newport Harbor chamber of commerce meeting and nobody gave him a paper hat or a balloon.

The state's chief executive wistfully watched decorated headgear distributed to everyone else and finally demanded hats for himself and Jir Irvine, pointing out that they needed covering for their heads more than anyone else. Both are slightly bald.

The paper hat oversight made the governor so angry he promised to balance the state's budget and even cast out a broad hint.

OREGON PAPER STRIKE ENDS

PORTLAND, Ore. (P)—Portland's three newspapers, reopened after a six-day printers' strike, buzzed with activity today as editions were made ready for a news-hungry public.

Printers gained a 45-cent per day pay increase but failed to reduce working time from 7 1/2 to 7 hours. The settlement provided a year contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, with hours and wages arbitration or conciliation on July 1 after 30 days' notice by either party. The new scale boosts daily wage to $9 and $9.50, respectively, for day and night work.

The Oregonian, morning newspaper was the first to publish an edition. Starting from scratch, with no set copy ready at 6:15 p. m. yesterday, when the strike ended, the Oregonian's first edition—32 pages, including five of back comics—rolled from the presses at midnight.

While the news department summarized week-long news in brief paragraphs, the advertising department mobilized 70 employees in 20 minutes and obtained more than 1000 inches of new copy in the hour before offices closed.

UNION HERE CONSIDERS CIO OFFER

Rumor Credits CROM With Intended Invasion

Invasion of the Mexico national labor organization into Orange county labor problems was rumored today as the Central (A. F. of L.) Labor council was pondering how seriously it should take the CIO bid to assist in the fight against so-called anti-union groups here.

The Mexican labor union, known as the CROM, has designs on organizing Mexican field workers in Orange county as well as other sections of Southern California, according to the report. It is said there are some 10,000 Mexicans in Southern California working largely under Japanese employers.

In the meantime, American Federation of Labor leaders in Santa Ana were today discussing the CIO bid yesterday to help the cause of organized labor in Orange county.

Some labor leaders here had no comment to make on the matter. Several, who did talk, agreed that if it came to a knock down drag out battle between employees and employers, the A. F. of L. and CIO rank and file workers would be together against outside opposition. The A. F. of L. men as a matter of policy, however, intend to stay aloof from the CIO and the latter leadership, it was said today.

15,000 UNION MEN
Of more than 15,000 persons in Orange county carrying union cards the large majority are members of the A. F. of L., it was reported from the labor council today.

The CIO is principally interested in organizing the agricultural workers in this county. Thus far the A. F. of L. has made no direct move toward systematic organization program in this line of activity, leaders of the federation here say. There is a subdivision in the A. F. of L., however, designed to take care of such workers.

SAMOA FLYER'S KIN COLLECTS

SAN FRANCISCO. (P)—An uncontested award of $5000 in state compensation insurance to Mrs. Marian MacLean, widow of Fred MacLean, navigator of the Samoan clipper, was announced here by the state industrial accident commission. MacLean was killed when the clipper burned and fell into the sea Jan. 11 near Pago Pago, American Samoa.

Fleet Continues Target Practice

SAN PEDRO. (P)—Day target practice fired by ships of the U. S. fleet will continue next week off Southern California, Capt. H. F. Leary, chief of staff of the battle force, announced.

Lloyds Cuts Insurance Rates

LONDON. (P)—Lloyds, marine underwriters, cut insurance rates for cargo in the Mediterranean 50 per cent today, following a lengthy period in which loss attributed to Spanish civil war attacks was comparatively light.

Attempt At Ship Bombing Foiled

SEATTLE. (P)—Customs agents investigating an asserted plot to blow up the Japanese liner Hiye Maru announced today a bomb had been fished from Elliott bay near the spot where the ship had been moored. The recovered article was brought for examination to the Great Partridge said, to blow up the liner, first objective of the plot. "I'll do it or die in the attempt," Partridge said Forsyth told him before swimming toward the Hiye Maru, berthed at pier 40.

Forsyth's nude body, clad only in a life jacket, was found a short time later by a Japanese seaman. A coroner's inquest decided Forsyth met death by drowning.

JURY PROBES BABY DEATH

Thorough investigation of circumstances in the fatal burning Wednesday night of Raymond Armez, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Armez, Buena Park, was to be made at an inquest in Fullerton this afternoon.

The infant died several hours after it was snatched from its burning crib—its clothes aflame from head to foot—in the Orange county hospital's contagious disease ward.

The fire apparently started when an electric plate being used to heat an aromatic solution ignited the bed clothes. The child was temporarily rescued by Ruth C. Curti, nurse in attendance, but he died a few hours later of first and second degree burns on his hands, feet, back and face.

Brought to the hospital yesterday morning, the infant was being given an inhalation treatment for a respiratory disease.

FRUIT CASE IN COURT AGAIN

Anaheim's frozen fruit case reached the courts again today, with arguments scheduled for 2 p. m. on a petition for an order restraining Justice D. T. Hayden from hearing further proceedings.

Presiding Superior Judge James L. Allen was to hear the proceedings, brought by Edward Mills, defendant in a misdemeanor charge of shipping frost-bitten oranges, on the grounds he was not given proper notice that the case was to be set for trial. Justice Hayden was appointed by the judicial council, after the first trial ended in a hung jury and Justice Charles Kuchel disqualified himself.

Ships Disabled In Collision

LONDON. (P)—Lloyd's reported today the 8235-ton Brazilian passenger steamer Bage and the 4968-ton Norwegian motor vessel Britt had been damaged badly in a collision off the German port of Cuxhaven, at the mouth of the Elbe river.

The Bage, bound for Brazil from Hamburg, Germany, put back to Cuxhaven with the aid of tugs. Other tugs stood by the Brattad, seriously damaged amidships with her engine room flooded. The Brattad was en route to Galveston, Tex., from Karishamn, Sweden.

Tricks With Liquid Air Displayed

A hammer made of ordinarily liquid mercury, cranberries frozen so they rattled like hailstones and a candle made of ordinary kerosene were shown Lions club members yesterday afternoon by Jay Williams, liquid air demonstrator. Williams explained commercial and scientific uses of liquid air, which is 312 degrees below zero and exerts a pressure of 5000 pounds per square inch as it "boils" at ordinary temperatures.

Aviator Stricken With Mystery Ill

OAKLAND. (P)—Specialists sought today to identify the ailment of 22-year-old Erling Erickson, who returned Wednesday from a solo flight in a rented airplane to fall into an unexplained coma, from which he has not recovered. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gunner Erickson, retired Santa Cruz ranchers, said his health had been excellent.

KILLER LURED KIMMEL TO TRAP, CHARGE

Disclosure of Murder To Police Related

LOS ANGELES. (P)—From the lips of police officer Harry W. Reed, summoned back to the witness stand today to give further direct testimony for the state, a jury heard repeated what was purported to be Paul A. Wright's hysterical cry early the morning of last Nov. 9 when he shot to death his wife, Evelyn, and John B. Kimmel.

"My God, I'm a murderer! I've killed my wife and best friend!" Wright was quoted as having exclaimed by Reed, one of the first officers to arrive at the Glendale home of Wright after the shooting.

Wright, 38-year-old former president of Union Air terminal in Burbank, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the murder charges. He told District Attorney Byron Fitts he shot the two in a fit of jealousy when he saw them embracing on a piano bench. The state, however, is demanding the death penalty.

Thus far, the state has shown how Wright and Kimmel appeared to be the best of friends the night of Nov. 8 and early the morning of Nov. 9 when they drank together in Hollywood night spots. Kimmel, so it was testified, accompanied Wright home to explain to Mrs. Wright that the two had been on a "stag" party.

"Johnny Kimmel had no intention of going home with Wright," charged Deputy District Attorney S. Ernest Roll. "He went to his death only because Wright enticed him to his home as a necessary victim for

THREE SHOT IN PRISON BREAK

LANSING, Kan. (P)—A young life-term murderer lay dead in the Kansas prison morgue today, shot when eight convicts attempted to escape in a fog last night.

Another convict, shot in the abdomen, was not expected to live. A third was wounded slightly in the hip. The other five surrendered peacefully.

Cecil Thornbrugh, 25, serving life for killing a county jail guard, was wounded fatally as he stood on a cell house and five others had scaled with the aid of long steel hooks.

Clifford Ottinger, 21, was critically wounded after he and a companion, Charles Addison, had climbed a wire fence at the other end of the prison yard.

Police Win in Auto Suit Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO. (P)—A decision on file in the supreme court today reversed a $2000 damage judgment awarded Ethel Lucas against the city of Los Angeles for injuries received in an automobile accident involving a police car.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Hollywood boulevard and Vermont avenue. Miss Lucas contended a police automobile disregarded a stop sign and collided with an automobile in which she was a passenger.

Mexico or Prison Choice to Burglar

Andy Rios doesn't want to go back to Mexico. But he doesn't want to go to San Quentin either, and he has a week to think the matter over.

"I'll give you a week to make up your mind," said Presiding Judge James L. Allen today as he denied Rios' plea for probation on a charge of burglarizing an Anaheim cafe last Nov. 18.

Rios' alleged companion on the adventure, Robert Ruiz, has pleaded not guilty and will have a jury trial before Superior Judge H. G. Ames March 15.

WIFE QUIZED IN SEARCH FOR OFFICER

Captain Denies Part In Raymond Affair

Scene of the Los Angeles police scandal surrounding the Harry Raymond bombing shifted to Santa Ana today. Investigators searched here for Roy Allen, Los Angeles police detective wanted for questioning in connection with the attempt on Raymond's life and asserted "wire-tapping" at Raymond's home by Los Angeles police.

Allen's wife, Mrs. Vera Allen, lives in an apartment at 1420 North Broadway street, it was reported, and is a teacher in Willard Junior High school. Authorities questioned her yesterday in an attempt to locate her husband, but she assertedly was unable to give them any information.

Allen's superior, Detective Captain Earle Kynette, arrested yesterday in Los Angeles, said Allen was "either visiting his school-teacher wife in Santa Ana, or is at Coto Hot Springs, 150 miles north of Los Angeles."

Kynette denied Allen had "run away," saying he had "given Allen a few days off before this useless 'routting' of my staff began."

MEAT DEALERS DENY CHARGES

Charges by Arizona and California cattle raisers that reductions in wholesale meat prices were not being passed on by retailers to consumers were denied today by local merchants.

At least two of the city's large meat markets pointed to figures which showed as high as a 25 per cent decrease in retail prices during the past few months, and further figures which showed that local prices are considerably lower than figures in Los Angeles.

Representatives of the cattle raisers and feeders, headed by George Mee, Los Angeles, said they were beginning an advertising campaign today in newspapers from Santa Barbara to Phoenix to acquaint purchasers with the alleged situation.

"Since last October," said Mee, "the beef producer has had to take from 30 to 40 per cent less for his cattle, while the retailers generally are taking only 10 per cent less for meat."

"This drop of one-third on wholesale prices should be definitely passed on to the consumer."

5 Moro Outlaws Killed in Battle

MANILA, P. I. (P)—Five Moro outlaws were killed and 10 wounded in a day-long battle between Philippine soldiers and Moros at Paudok fort. Four soldiers were wounded, one seriously.

The soldiers captured the fort by assault after shelling it for seven hours. Complete demolition of the Moro stronghold was started immediately after its seizure.

Cake Snatchers Busy Again

By BRADEN FINCH
Here's one that should wake up local business and professional men, for it's snatching the cake right out of their mouths—

Long Beach civic leaders are promoting the opening of 17th street right into the heart of their city. Reason: It means more business for Long Beach.

Local organizations can keep a suburban trade balance for Santa Ana, however, by getting behind the new program for five major cut-offs leading directly from the county seat to the main outlying towns. The Huntington Beach cut-off would be a good one to start on, and the county planning commission would be a good place to start.

BUSINESS, NEW DEAL NEAR UNDERSTANDING, SAYS ROOSEVELT

FDR URGES ACCOUNTING FOR UNIONS

Advisory Group Not Planned, Claim

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt said today he believed his conferences with business and other groups were making satisfactory progress and were clearing the atmosphere of misunderstanding.

The President reviewed his recent talks with representatives of business, finance and labor just prior to conferring with automobile manufacturers regarding improved methods of financing aimed at regularizing production and employment.

The business men with whom he has talked thus far, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference, were learning, among other things, to see matters from a national point of view and were not concerning themselves only with their own separate problems.

Distinct progress was being made, he said. Asked to comment on resentment by some labor leaders over his suggestion that unions make public their financing, the chief executive suggested that the chief of the business advisory group would be working with everybody to study the British trade union system.

When informed that unions in Great Britain forbade political contributions, the President said he did not know about that.

Explaining further his comments to the business advisory council Wednesday night, the President said he did not have in mind creating any special body to advise with the government on policy.

It had been reported that he contemplated forming a permanent advisory body with members of all types of interests—agriculture, consumer and the like, as well as business.

He said he was trying to work out, without legislation, a plan whereby private groups would come together and exchange information among themselves.

For example, he said, it was helpful when John L. Lewis, vice president of the Committee for Industrial Organization, sat at the same table with Thomas W. Lamont, J. P. Morgan partner, and Owen D. Young of the General Electric company, to consider plans for attacking the recession. The conferences, he said, were serving to clear up many false impressions, which he attributed mostly to politics.

Now I'm puzzled to find out what's the correlation between history and Virgil. Preson comes in with Donald Jordan and the Garden Grove students to tour The Journal office. He's up on eticructure and horticulture, but how to apply it to newspapers perplexes me some. Virgil is also beautifying lawns and adorning landscapes. Our profession tries to add to its attractiveness by using plenty of art work. Maybe that's the relationship.

The headache period has arrived, so the internal revenue collector in Los Angeles has added 100 aides to help the afflicted with their income tax report. If you can fill in the blank spaces you are a mathematician. If not then you are something else. There is one thing about the internal revenue department. It's impartial. You've got your blank, haven't you?

Speaking about breakfasts which are different, Ralph Smedley recalls one bought and paid for by a young student at a depot lunch counter in Peoria. It consisted of a glass of milk, a slice of leftover fried catfish, and a piece of rhubarb pie, which was also one day old. I don't know what the dieticians think of this kind of a breakfast, but I know what my stomach would think.

Farm Center to Become Vocal

Farm centers don't only talk—they sing, now.

At least the West Orange center does. It announced its affiliation today with the adult education department of the public schools, for the purpose of forming a 50-voice chorus, which will meet every Monday night in the Orange High school auditorium.

Director L. M. Sharpless issued a blanket invitation for anyone with a voice, who desires to let it out, to join the group in its Monday evening rehearsals.

Dates Set for Pomona Fair

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The Western Fairs association, in annual meeting here, today had confirmed Sept. 16 to Oct. 2 as the dates for this year's Los Angeles county fair at Pomona.

For the California state fair at Sacramento, the association approved Sept. 2 to 11.

G-Men Link Anders With Kidnap-Robbery Wave

him through the head. Apparently Ross attempted to intervene and also was knocked to the ground and while struggling there, was shot through the head and killed.

Hoover said Anders then took Gray's $20,000 share of the $50,000 ransom, along with most of the accomplice's clothing, covered the bodies with leaves and twigs and headed back into Minnesota to hide his $30,000 share in the typewriter case. From there, declared Hoover, Anders began a tour of the country, finally losing from $30,000 to $60,000 of cash when his car was raided while parked in a garage near the Holland tunnel in New York City.

KIDNAPING TOLD
The federal official said Anders talked willingly about the Borgia kidnapping, telling how he seized them at the point of a pistol near Lake Geneva, Wis., about 60 miles north of Chicago, Sept. 1. He promptly released the husband with instructions as to how much ransom to obtain and how it should be paid. Hoover said Anders finally was persuaded by the husband to release Mrs. Borgia because he lacked funds to pay ransom.

Pressed about reported attempts to link Anders with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, Hoover said: "So far as we know there is no such connection."

Concerning the Arthur Fried disappearance at White Plains, N. Y., and the kidnap-killing of young Mattson at Tacoma, Wash., Hoover replied: "It is not my policy to make any announcements relative to cases that have not been solved."

MATTSON CASE
The father of the Mattson child announced yesterday that his two children had been taken by federal men to view Anders, apparently while he was held on the West coast and had decided that he was not the man who snatched the boy from his home more than a year ago.

Bank robberies which, Hoover said, Anders confessed, were: Shakopee, Minn., First National bank, Jan. 25, 1937; State Bank of Centuria, Wis., Milwaukie branch, May 26, 1936; Centex, Wis., Peoples State bank, Aug. 25, 1936, and Eagle River, Wis., First National bank, June 15, 1936.

So inaccessible is the region where the cave is located that Washburn county officials did not reach Spooner with the bodies of Ross and Gray until 2:15 a. m. (CST) today. Snow drifts virtually obscured the trail leading up to the woods hideout. Automobiles could not be driven closer than five miles and the nearest telephone was 10 miles away. Hoover said the bodies were in "an exceptionally well-preserved state."

The detailed Anders' confession as given by the Federal Bureau of Investigation chief related how Ross was brought to the Minnesota hideout immediately after the kidnapping. Hoover said this den was located near a lonely side road a few miles north of Emily, which is the center of the Minnesota resort area.

ROSS IN DUGOUT
The place was described as a shallow wood frame dugout, implanted level with the earth, about six feet deep, six feet wide and 10 feet long. Hoover said the aged Ross who was snatched away from his secretary, Miss Florence Freidage, while driving near Chicago, was kept manacled in the unheated dugout for about 13 days.

Indications were that the wealthy Chicagoan had undergone great suffering during his imprisonment both from the cold and from scant rations. Drawing on Anders' confession, Hoover said the abductors—in an effort to hasten ransom payment and to impress Ross' family that he still was alive—mailed a photograph of Ross reading a Chicago newspaper near the woods hiding place.

The agents recovered the newspaper from which a story had been cut together with a ransom note. The transfer to the Wisconsin cave was made by automobile about Oct. 9, continued the official version of the case. There Ross again was manacled, principally with a chain one end of which was buried in the earth.

RANSOM PAID
While the abductors operated out of this region inhabited only by a few trappers, the ransom was paid. Then, said Hoover, there was a dispute over the sharing of the loot.

"Anders and Gray clashed," said the FBI chief, "and Anders knocked Gray down and then shot him through the head."

WRIGHT DEATH TRAP CHARGED

the deliberate execution of his wife he had planned."

Reed in his direct testimony said he was called to the Wright home shortly after 4 a. m. Nov. 9. He told of meeting Wright at the entrance to his drive way.

"Mrs. Wright was lying on her right side with her head near the piano pedals and her body under the bench. I took her pulse, which was very slight. "Kimmel was lying on his back. His right leg was under the piano bench and partially over her body. His left foot rested on the base end of the keyboard."

The officer said Mrs. Wright's clothing was not disarranged. He said Kimmel's clothing was in partial disorder.

Wright, who has reiterated he would describe intimacies between the victims which caused him to shoot blindly, fidgeted as Reed testified.

Mrs. Marene Kimmel, widow of the slain man, dropped her head on her breast and wept as Reed testified.

From the testimony of Miss Litane McClusky, a neighbor of Wright, the jury heard that the fatal fusillade in the Wright home began with a single shot. After a brief interval there were several more shots, the witness said.

D. U. V. MEETING
Officers of the Daughters of Union Veterans will meet in the M. W. A. hall at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Jan. 25, for practice. There will be a covered dish luncheon at noon, followed by the regular meeting at 2 p. m.

TRADE CLASS TO OPEN HERE MONDAY

Trade extension classes in vocational training, sought for the past six months, will be officially inaugurated here next Monday, when classes in carpentry and electricity will be started.

Because the intent of the course is not to develop more artisans, but to increase the efficiency of those already in the trade, the courses will be limited to such persons, under state department of education regulations.

The class in carpentry will be directed by L. B. Anderson, veteran carpenter and building foreman, and that in electricity by Harry Becker, employee of Gilbert, Weston and Stearns. Both teachers had been taking a training course under Dr. David F. Jackey of U. C. L. A.

The classes will be held each Monday and Thursday evening in the old print shop building of Santa Ana High school, from 7 to 9 o'clock. There is no charge.

The complete Santa Ana Plan for Vocational Training calls for the establishment of other similar classes later, and eventually for the establishment of apprentice groups this spring. The latter groups will be open to young men desiring to learn a trade.

The program will be administered by the evening high school department. It will be under the general supervision of craftsmen, contractors and architects.

Truck Driver Held On Assault Charge

Charged with attacking J. F. Hartwell, Fullerton jeweler, with intent to commit robbery and with intent to do great bodily harm, Donald H. Savage, 25, transient truck driver, today was booked in county jail where he will await a preliminary hearing before Fullerton Justice of the Peace Halsey I. Spence Jan. 31.

Savage was arrested immediately after he left the jewelry store at 103 South Spadra street. He was charged with kidnapping Hartwell with "an unknown weapon," after which the two assertedly grappled for several minutes. Savage finally gave up and dashed out the front door and into the arms of a policeman, Hartwell said. He was unarmed.

Bail was set at $5,000, and a preliminary hearing was set ahead because the jeweler still is in a Fullerton hospital.

Elliot to Head Commanders Club

R. Earl Elliot was named president of the Post-Commanders club, Santa Ana chapter Sons of Union Veterans, when that group gathered at the Rossmore cafe last night for its semi-annual dinner and social meeting.

W. I. Davis, retiring president, conducted the meeting, assisted by E. A. Bell, retiring secretary-treasurer. C. E. Brayton was elected secretary-treasurer last evening. Perry Grout, retiring commander of the Sons of Union Veteran camp, was automatically installed as a member.

Those present for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Elliot, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brayton, Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Grout, Lucille Pollock, and J. R. Moore.

Still Owner Pays But May Lose Bond

SAN BERNARDINO, (AP)—B. A. Chilson, 76, who yesterday paid a $500 fine for possessing a liquor still, faced possible loss of the $2500 bond he had posted today.

The bond was attached by District Attorney Jerome B. Kavanaugh, who charged Chilson, claiming indigency, had obtained $1230 in old age pension payments in the past three years.

Chilson first came to grief when his still, in a garage, blew up. He had $4000 in a money belt when he was arrested, but claimed the cash belonged to a friend.

BURGLARS LOOT BALDWIN HOME

STOURPORT, Worcestershire, Eng. (AP)—Burglars invaded Earl Baldwin's beloved country home, Asterly Hall, today and were reported to have stolen the former prime minister's valuable collection of old coins.

Earl and Lady Baldwin were away, but their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Wynndham Baldwin, and her baby son were in the house at the time. Mrs. Baldwin was Elspeth Tones of New York before her marriage in 1936.

'Drunk Rollers' Face Sentence

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Convicted of grand theft in "rolling" drunks, Roy Wallace and Adolphus Baldwin face sentence in superior court next Tuesday.

Three other police officers similarly convicted are now serving long jail terms. Chief witness against them was K. L. Brown, another policeman, who posed as an inebriate and testified the officers took money from his pockets and kept it.

Woman Carries Mail 25 Years

BRACEBRIDGE, Ontario, Canada. (AP)—American Wire—Canada's most experienced postwoman, Mrs. William Grifford, is looking forward to her 25th anniversary as a mail carrier. On Jan. 1, 1912 she took over her husband's route when he became ill. In delivering it she drives a horse-drawn stage 24 miles a day.

AUXILIARY PARTY

The Mothers club of the American Legion auxiliary will have a belated Christmas party in Veterans hall on Monday, Jan. 24. The group will meet at 10 a. m., and there will be a noon turkey dinner in place of the customary pot-luck luncheon. There will be a gift exchange in the afternoon.

SALESMAN HELD FOR BAD CHECK

Sought for nearly a year on charges of grand theft and issuing fictitious checks, W. M. Mahlum, 35, was being held by Yakima, Wash., authorities today pending extradition proceedings to bring him back to face trial here. Officers here have held two warrants for Mahlum's arrest since last February, when he is charged with theft of $485 from D. B. Wright, Costa Mesa, on a fake auto sale scheme.

Mahlum is charged with representing himself as an automobile salesman, "selling" a new car to Wright and promising to make delivery later. Wright told officers he paid the man $100 and gave him two old cars as trade-ins.

Another complaint charges Mahlum issued two checks totaling $23 to John Vilella of Newport Beach.

FEARS END OF RECESSION

WASHINGTON, (AP)—John D. Biggers, unemployment census chief, told senate investigators today the "real problem" faced by this country today was in the possibility that recovery from the present business slump might be too rapid.

The Toledo, Ohio, industrialist said he looked for a rather sharp resumption of business activity soon.

"The real problem now is to be sure the rebound from this depression, if it is supplemented by artificial means, isn't too rapid," he declared, warning with Charles Byrnes (D., S. C.) that "business might go to the other extreme."

Sewing Project Jobs Safe Till Feb. 1

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Five thousand women employed in Los Angeles county WPA sewing projects, which were to have closed tomorrow, today were assured of jobs at least until Feb. 1.

The projects will be continued, Donald H. Connolly, Southern California WPA director, said, until the California Association of County Supervisors, meeting in San Francisco Feb. 28, discusses a compromise financing plan.

The WPA is willing to continue to pay the women's wages of $55 each a month, but wants the counties to meet $7.50 of the total of $12.50 cost each for materials. The clothing made would be distributed to federal and state relief clients.

'Dangerous Age' Topic for Talks

A series of eight lectures on "The Dangerous Age," open to all men, will be launched next Thursday at the Y. M. C. A., in cooperation with the Orange County Medical society. A lecture will be given each Thursday night, by one or more physicians who have specialized in the topics to be presented.

The lecture topics: Jan. 27, "Health Problems of Maturity;" Feb. 3, "Diet and the Digestive Tract;" Feb. 10, "Trouble With the Heart;" Feb. 17, "Cancer—Its Causes and Treatment;" Feb. 24, "Arthritis, Neuritis and Gout;" March 3, "Surgical Problems of Middle Age;" March 10, "Psychiatry as Applied to Middle Age;" March 17, "Public Health—Venereal Disease."

CHINESE KILL 8 ARMY HEADS

HANKOW, China. (AP)—The Chinese government disclosed today that 40 high Chinese officers, half of them division commanders, had been tried by court martial during the last six months.

Eight of the 40 were given death sentences and the others received varying degrees of punishment. There was no indication of the fate of General Han Fu-chi, former Shantung province governor charged with high treason and "other crimes of extreme gravity" for ordering a retreat from Shantung province.

Tokyo, Japan, is enrolling 500 policemen to complete its force.

WRIGHT WINS ALIENATION JUDGMENT

Love Trial Goes Against Rancher

Harry D. Zimmer, Anaheim rancher and truck operator, today lost $3500 in a love theft suit brought by Orley Wright, Orange cordage factory worker.

Wright got judgment for that amount late yesterday at the conclusion of a sensational four-day trial before Presiding Judge James L. Allen.

He charged that Zimmer enticed Mrs. Wright away from him and their 10-year-old daughter and financed a trip to Las Vegas to get a divorce, and that Mrs. Wright had lived in the Zimmer home.

Judgment against Zimmer, given with a 10-day stay of execution, was for $3000 actual damages and $500 punitive damages.

Zimmer had contended throughout the trial that Mrs. Wright was a family friend, and had hotly denied giving her money or being alone with her in his ranch home.

Mrs. Zimmer, who was always present when Mrs. Wright stayed there.

Witnesses called by Wright's attorneys, Tucker and Drumm, yesterday afternoon for rebuttal included Monica Dolphin, Anaheim nurse, and Dorothy Hampton, Costa Mesa divorcee, both of whom had been escorted by Wright after his wife left him late in 1936.

Their testimony, intended to show Wright had grieved over his wife's leaving, was stricken on objections of S. B. Kaufman, Zimmer's attorney, on grounds it was not proper rebuttal.

Ten-year-old Betty Wright, the couple's daughter, denied from the witness stand that her father "whipped her with a rope" at a San Onofre beach cabin, as had been contended by the defense to show differences between the Wrights.

Russick Sent to Santa Barbara

Robert R. Russick of Santa Ana, district WPA supervisor stationed at San Diego until recently, has been appointed director of adult recreation in Santa Barbara, it was learned here today.

The appointment, which has been under consideration for several months, is effective Feb. 1. Russick's new duties will consist of developing all recreational facilities in Santa Barbara as well as directing all community recreational activities.

MORE PEOPLE EAT AVOCADOS

Prosperity note: The avocado is finding increased favor on the nation's dining tables.

This was reflected today, Manager George B. Hodgkin of the Calavo Growers of California said, in the fact that volume avocado shipping is now in full swing as a result of the rapid increase in nationwide consumption following New Year's.

Calavo-avocado movement during the first two weeks of January equaled half of the three preceding full months' total movement. More than 50,000 flats were packed this month up to Jan. 15, as compared to approximately 107,000 flats for the months of October, November and December. About 28 per cent of the season's total crop has been harvested.

Prevailing prices still are below those desired, Hodgkin said. Large quantities of miscellaneous, ungraded and competing fruit are still appearing in practically all markets he pointed out, in sufficient volume to make it difficult to stabilize prices or effectively coordinate supply and demand.

ROAD SCYTHE CLIPS ONE MORE VICTIM

Death struck a delayed blow—its seventh of 1938—to Orange county traffic yesterday when John Nathaniel Clark, 26-year-old Los Angeles man, died in an Anaheim sanitarium of injuries received Tuesday evening.

At first believed only superficially injured, Clark's condition gradually became graver and he finally succumbed yesterday afternoon. He was fatally injured when his car and one driven by Ralph Mitchell, 42, 330 Main street, Tustin, collided at Commonwealth and Grand avenues in Brea Park.

The body was taken to Backs, Terry and Campbell mortuary in Anaheim where an inquest will be conducted at 9 a. m. tomorrow. The accident victim lived at 5662 Alondra street, Los Angeles.

Charles Hunt, 32, route 3 box 237, Anaheim, was critically injured in an accident on Placentia avenue late last night. Suffering from a possible fractured pelvis, severe lacerations above the eye and on his hands and arms, Hunt said he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car. His machine slipped off the road, skidded down an embankment and turned over.

GIRL HONORED BY GOVERNOR

Ed Ainsworth, Los Angeles Times columnist, brought on the candidacy announcement in a make-believe radio broadcast, during which "flashes" came from all over the state reporting his excellency would accept the nomination.

Governor Merriam honored a Newport-Balboa girl, Miss Dee Williamson, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Harry H. Williamson, for heroic rescue of a drowning youth last summer in Newport bay. He presented the high school girl a gold medal, gift of the chamber of commerce, for the courageous rescue, during which she dived under a barge to bring the lad to the surface.

Attacking plans to do away with the sales tax, the governor said a balanced budget was anticipated at the end of this fiscal year and said that at the end of the biennium he would come before the people with a proposal to reduce taxes.

Ainsworth brought shouts of laughter with his radio "broadcast," discussing local personalities.

CRAEMER MENTIONED Honored during the evening were Justus Craemer of state building and loan commissioner; J. A. Beek of Balboa Island, secretary of the state senate; Mayor and Mrs. Williamson; Commodore Shiley Meserve of the Newport Harbor Yacht club; Commodore Batchelor of the Balboa Yacht club; Lew H. Wallace, longtime Newport resident; James Irvine, Supervisor Harry D. Riley, Capt. William J. Brown, Supervisor John Mitchell, R. L. Patterson, Newport city engineer; Supervi-

President Theo Robins, acting as master of ceremonies, announced results of election of chamber directors. Named at an election earlier in the day were Capt. William J. Brown, W. H. Adams, Paul A. Palmer, L. W. Briggs, Fred Storey, J. E. Sadlier, J. A. Beek, J. A. Siegel, and Walter S. Spicer. Holdover members are C. F. Dennison, Theodore Robins, S. A. Meyer, Dr. G. M. Grundy, J. D. Watkins, J. E. Greely, Dr. H. W. Seager, Hubbard Howe and Heinz Kaiser.

Dinner was served in the Newport Harbor Yacht club, with residents of the harbor district as hosts at various tables. Each table was decorated with light houses, miniature floats and racing yachts.

Adversity Is Real Test

By DALE CARNEGIE

I met a lawyer friend of mine the other day from the Middle West. He told me of four men he knew who have met financial disaster during the last eight years. Back in 1929, they all owned rich tracts of corn land, and fine herds of blooded cattle; one owned a highly profitable fruit ranch. All felt they were economically secure. Now they have nothing; but three of them take their reverses philosophically; they say they came into the world with nothing and they are leaving with nothing. They declare that the things they once devoted their lives to, the amassing of property and dollars, were not worth while, and they say they now have peace of mind that they never had before.

Growers Plan Journey to Avocado Shrine

From one little tree, 10,000 acres grew. So avocado growers of California will make a pilgrimage come April, to do fitting honor to that tree, in Atlixco, Mexico.

The tree is the parent Fuerte variety tree, from which the first budwood was sent to California, starting this state's present huge industry. Special honors also will be paid two men, as well as the tree. They are Senor Alexander LeBlanc, in whose garden the tree stands, and Carl Schmidt of Mexico City, who discovered the tree and its fruit.

Date of the exercises is April 17. The trip will take 17 days, and is being sponsored by the governments of Mexico and United States, the state of California and several farm organizations.

10TH MILE OF SAN JACINTO BORE DRIVEN

Hard-rock miners, working a half mile beneath the surface of the earth, blasted out a block of granite which completed the excavation of the tenth mile of the 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel, according to a report received in the Los Angeles office of F. E. Weymouth, general manager of the Metropolitan Water District.

With exactly three miles of stubborn rock remaining to be excavated in the tunnel, work is now being pushed ahead at four working faces in the tunnel. Water district engineers stated yesterday that excavation progress in the tunnel has been materially increased during the last few days because of the two additional headings that have been put into operation at the foot of the Lawrence adit.

Located near the center of the 13-mile tunnel, this mile-long adit, giving access to the main tunnel, has just recently been completed. Tunnel crews are now working east and west from the bottom of this adit as well as from the Cabazon and Potrero shafts. The tunnel is being excavated to a diameter of 18 feet, large enough to accommodate a full size locomotive.

In addition to the ten miles of the tunnel that have been excavated, yesterday's construction report stated that more than five and a half miles of the tunnel have been lined with concrete and completed. Placed with huge machines which pump the concrete into special steel forms, the smooth concrete lining is 18 inches thick.

SPED FINES

Traveling 65 miles in a 45-mile zone at Santa Ana boulevard and Flower street Dec. 29 yesterday cost Donlin G. Dow, 89 Ninth street, Buena Park, $25 when he pleaded guilty before City Judge J. C. Mitchell. Other speeding fines were levied against C. W. Theobald, San Diego, and Charles E. Harber, Santa Ana, $8.

COMMISSION SEEKS RACIAL ACCORD

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Fourteen California residents representative of almost as many races were created a commission today to foster racial amity in the state.

The appointments were made by Governor Frank F. Merriam in accordance with a senate concurrent resolution sponsored by State Senator Ed Fletcher, San Diego, at the last legislative session.

Allen C. Blaisdell, Berkeley, heads the commission. Other members are Mrs. Esther Flis Hammon, Santa Barbara; Louis J. Coelho, Fresno; Louis Felder, San Francisco; Fred Roberts, Hugh E. MacBeth, Charles Bacos, Sei Fujii, Felipe Inocencia and Rabbi Maxwell H. Dubin of Los Angeles; Dennis V. Allen, Chantemois A. Hernandez and Rev. Kei T. Wong of San Diego and Dr. Frank B. Gigliotti, La Mesa.

Racial groups represented include negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos, Spanish, Italian and Portuguese.

WRITER WINS DAMAGE SUIT

LONDON. (AP)—Compton MacKenzie, author whose projected book on the life and abdication of the Duke of Windsor was cancelled, won a libel action today against "The Leader," a weekly paper.

The publication apologized and agreed to pay MacKenzie "a substantial sum as compensation and his costs."

In a statement announcing cancellation of the book last November, MacKenzie's attorney said the duke first had approved the proposed book but later changed his mind.

This was followed by an article in "The Leader," the attorney said, "which implied MacKenzie was falsely pretending that he was writing a work with the consent and approval of the duke, and made that false statement for the purpose of 'puffing' sales of the book."

WOMAN TO DIE FOR MURDER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Henry Horner broke precedent today and refused to prevent the electrocution Friday of Mrs. Marie Porter of St. Louis, 37-year-old mother of four daughters.

The governor also refused to commute the death penalty of Angelo Ralph Giancola, 22, convicted with Mrs. Porter of the wedding day insurance slaying of her brother, William Kappen.

Illinois has never electrocuted a woman. Horner in several cases has commuted to long terms the death sentences of women convicted of murder.

Available records show that only one woman was hanged for murder in Illinois, at Lawrenceville in 1845.

National G. A. R. Meeting Slated

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—The 73rd annual national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held here Sept. 4 to 8, inclusive, the executive committee decided here today.

Committee members attending included O. H. Mennet, Los Angeles, National G. A. R. commander-in-chief and Russell C. Martin, Los Angeles, adjutant general and post commander.

By FRANK ORR

Members of the Phantom society, exclusive organization at the red sandstone clubhouse at Sixth and Sycamore streets, are waiting impatiently today.

They had hoped for quicker action by the grand jury, and they haven't got action yet. Which isn't exactly the grand jury's fault.

Last week rumor had it the jury was practically through—not to adjourn, but perhaps to submit a supplemental report on the Animal Act and the five phantoms, apooks, bulls of the woods and bellwethers, depending on who you are talking about.

But up popped N. E. West, who used to be called the West Pocket Hercules and who later was tagged Little Atlas on account of the weight of the world seemed to be on his shoulders.

West lead a fine barrage of charges which took more than another day to investigate, thus postponing festivities for a while.

As things stand, some of the excitement has dropped off from the spook department. There have been various good trials, the indictment of Police Chief Floyd Howard, labor war rumors, and rain to take the ghosts' place as subjects of conversation.

The grand jury may say or do something next week. It was expected to do so Wednesday—so much so that newspapermen were thicker than hair on a dog outside the jury room door. But nothing happened.

The five members of the Spook society—Assessor Jim Sleeper, the

FIRING OF WORKERS FOR STATE PROBES

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The state personnel board heard today that dismissal of several employees of the state social welfare department was urged by Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

This testimony was given by Rhea Crawford Spilvalo, Los Angeles evangelist and former director of the department, as a witness for Kathleen McLaren, whose petition for reinstatement in the department and 37 months' back pay at $200 a month the board is hearing.

Mrs. Spilvalo said that following Governor Merriam's election, her resignation was asked and that following the appointment of Mrs. Florence Turner as her successor, Miss McLaren and several other employees were removed.

The evangelist commended Miss McLaren as a capable and efficient worker.

Mrs. Turner, also testifying, told the board that the governor had told her to clean out the department.

"bellwether" in West's zoo; Treasurer Terry Stephenson; Auditor Bill Lambert; Coroner Earl Abbey and Sheriff Logan Jackson—asked for an immediate investigation and report after West's first recent blast.

They've talked with the jury themselves and asked quick action. So far, nothing. But come Wednesday, the ear-to-the-ground department will be operating full time.

JOHNSON TO BE TREASURY CANDIDATE

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer since 1922 announced his candidacy for re-election today. He probably will file for both Republican and Democratic nominations, his office stated.

Johnson founded the Swedish-American bank in San Francisco, was appointed state sealer of weights and measures by Gov. Hiram Johnson and prepared the state weights and measures law. He has held the post of treasurer of the Association of Treasurers of the United States.

Island Trespass Drive Started

SANTA BARBARA. (AP)—A drive to end trespassing and poaching was announced today by the owners and lessees of the islands of Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz and San Miguel.

Edward Shelton of Los Angeles owns Santa Cruz, N. R. Vail of Beverly Hills owns Santa Rosa and San Miguel is leased from the government by L. R. Brooks.

C. E. Mace, representing the State Livestock Identification department, said the state will move actively to protect the island stockmen.

Recently, five men who landed on Santa Rosa island pleaded guilty to trespassing and were fined $50 each on that charge and $100 each for shooting hogs.

Benefit Party Funds Used For Sick Girl's Funeral

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—There was no party last night for 13-year-old Estelle Lieberman of this city—Estelle died yesterday in a Boston hospital.

For the last year and a half Estelle had been ill of hemophilia, a rare blood disease. During the time she was confined to the Boston hospital, neighbors and friends raised money at little parties to pay for expensive blood transfusions. Prior to that, members of the Hartford police department had donated 19 transfusions.

Last night there was to have been another party for a further transfusion, but it has been cancelled and the money collected will go to pay for Estelle's funeral tomorrow.

OIL DRILLING SHOWS DECLINE

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—California oil drillers started 24 new wells last week, R. D. Bush, state supervisor, reported today.

Starts in the first two weeks of 1938 totaled 54, running behind last year's 71 for the same period.

Bush said there were 17 re-drilling jobs, and 15 abandonments. Wilmington accounted for eight of the week's new starts; Santa Maria valley four, and Rincon, Long Beach and Round Mountain fields two each.

Hancock Oil company started three new wells, and Shell, Signal and C. M. O. two each.

Girl Injured In Auto Smash

Phyllis Luther, 14-year-old daughter of Porter G. Luther, 44, route 1 box 178, Santa Ana, was injured when Luther's car and one driven by Dr. Chad M. Harwood, 205 South Main street, collided at Seventeenth street and Broadway late yesterday.

BUSINESS FEES PAYABLE NOW

Highest business licenses paid in Santa Ana are by retail or wholesale firms with annual incomes running from thousands of dollars annually to a million dollars a year.

Business fees here amount to as little as $1.00 a year and to as much as $320 annually. Taxi operators pay the lowest tax; certain retail and wholesale enterprises, the highest, pay on the basis of gross sales.

And by the way, business licenses are due and payable at this time. If the January assessment is not remitted to the city clerk before the end of the month, it will be exactly doubled in February.

HUGE LOAN SOUGHT FOR PRUNE MEN

FRESNO. (AP)—An application for a $2,400,000 federal loan to finance the purchase of 40,000 tons of unsold 1937 crop raisins still held by San Joaquin Valley producers has been filed with the Commodity Credit corporation at Washington, D. C., by grower members of the Raisin Prorate Zone Program committee.

E. F. Loesch of Fresno, a member of the state prorate commission, and Edson Abel of Sacramento, the commission secretary, reported the outlook for obtaining the fund is promising.

The tentative plan, if the loan is granted, provides for purchase of the raisins at $60 a ton in a program operated by a corporation which will warehouse or re-sell the fruit to remedy present conditions in the industry and to stabilize the 1938 market.

New Mexican Highway Slated

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A new highway south from Piedras Negras on the Texas border which will shorten the route to Mexico City for California and other western states by 250 miles soon will be under construction, Nazario S. Ortiz Garza said here today.

Garza, senator from the Mexican state of Coahuila, said the new road will run from Piedras Negras to Saltillo, there to connect with highways to Monterey and Torreon, thence to Mexico City.

MAY SUSPEND LICENSES OF SPEEDERS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. George H. Earle's highway safety campaign broadened out today as the Pennsylvania government sought reciprocal agreements to suspend licenses of out-of-state speeders.

J. Griffith Boardman, secretary of revenue, said he had written governors and traffic law enforcement agencies in every other state urging the compacts for a 90-day suspension of licenses.

Pennsylvania boosted its speed limit from 40 to 50 miles an hour in September. Governor Earle has ordered suspension of licenses as the penalty for violation.

"I've received replies from three states to date—Vermont, Tennessee and Connecticut," Boardman said. "All of them express sympathy with Governor Earle's objective in this safety campaign, and pledge complete cooperation."

But whether the newly formed speed violation unit of the department of revenue can enforce its summonses mailed to out-of-state drivers, through having other states suspend their licenses, remained a legal problem, Boardman said.

Since Jan. 1 nearly 200 motorists have been ordered to appear before special speeders' courts throughout the state. Approximately 90 per cent were out-of-state residents.

A new batch of 22 summonses sent out today, all were addressed to motorists residing outside Pennsylvania.

Drivers notified today were ordered to appear Feb. 26 and 27 at Bethlehem and Erie, Pa.

Dog Curfew Law Is Upheld By Pasadena Council

PASADENA. (AP)—Despite the objections of many dog lovers, Pasadena's canine curfew law must stay in their masters' yards between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.

And if the dogs must be out between midnight and dawn, they must be on leash, accompanied by their owners.

Those are provisions of a new ordinance that became effective last night. Twenty-one dogs have been cited for violation of the ordinance since Jan. 1, the health department reported. The ordinance was adopted to remove the danger to pedestrians of rabies-infected dogs.

CHAPTER 13

It was late and very quiet in Manhattan. A few taxis cruised along the deserted streets, occasionally sounds of merriment came from passing cars.

A white milk wagon lumbered from Broadway into Fifty-second. The horse's hoofs made plopping noises on the pavement.

For the first time since her wedding night Merrie relaxed. For the first time she was neither pushed or crowded by a hectic excitement.

Contentment settled over her spirit like the feel of a warm, comfortable blanket on a cold night.

A stillness enveloped her and she rested in the stillness. Slowly her eyes closed, slowly her head drooped.

It came to rest against Jim's arm. With a soft little sigh she fell asleep. It seemed but a moment when she heard Jim's voice, laughing and tender.

She kept her eyes closed for a long moment, holding onto the tenderness. So seldom had Merrie known tenderness.

"Wake up, little kid," he was saying. "I'm afraid we'll get arrested if we park here much longer." He laughed again when she didn't move. "Merrie—Merrie—"

"Jim—m?" sleepily.

With amusement coloring the words, he repeated an old jingle.

"A birdie with a yellow bill Hopped upon the window sill. Cocked his shining eye and said, 'Ain't you shamed, you sleepy head?'"

Merrie opened her eyes. They were dewy with sleep. Jim's arm held her close against his shoulder.

In one hand he held her hat.

Man Held As Companion Falls From Car, Dies

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Lois S. Saavedro, 32, Pasadena, told police yesterday that she and her sweethearts had a quarrel early this morning while riding in his car.

Suddenly, during the argument, Candie Griljavia, 27, opened the car door and jumped out. She suffered injuries from which she soon died.

Although this was the explanation given Detective Lieutenants George Hill and William Clark, Saavedro was booked on suspicion of manslaughter for further investigation.

The gray light of morning made objects unreal and ghostly. Merrie sat up with a confused laugh.

"Jim—I mean Mr. Blanchard—"

"You might as well call me Jim. It seems only fitting and proper after spending the night with your head on my shoulder." He rubbed his cramped arm.

"But I'm so sorry—so dreadfully something or other—I don't know what I'm trying to say." She patted back a yawn. "I really wasn't asleep."

"What then?" teasingly.

"I was simply staging a sit-down strike."

EYES TWINKLED

He shouted with laughter. "And what are your demands?"

"That you accept my apology for being so nasty the other night. I'm sorry—really, I am."

"Granted. Forget it, Merrie. Let's be friends, shall we?" Soberly they shook hands. Then his eyes twinkled.

"I thought perhaps you wanted a 15-hour night so you could have more time for devilry."

She pouted. "Don't scold me, Jim." Instantly she changed expression and opened the car door.

"Goodness gracious, I must dash. Emma has probably called out the marines before this."

She yawned again. "I haven't been so rested since I came to New York."

"Here's your hat."

"Oh, yes—my hat." They had been parked in front of the Franklin Manor, and she ran for the door. "Good night, Jim."

A distraught Emma admitted her to the apartment.

"Where have you been?" she demanded, more like a mother than a maid. "Mr. Rawson has 'phoned every 15 minutes."

"The craziest thing," Merrie laughed, stretching her arms above her head. "I went to sleep in Jim Blanchard's car and, well—he let me sleep."

Emma visibly relaxed. "Oh, well—Mr. Blanchard—as if that made it a different story."

WORRIED

The telephone whirled sharply. Merrie answered, to hear Curt's voice.

"Are you safe, darling?" he asked in an agitated tone.

"Of course. Why?"

"Gwen and I have been almost out of our minds with worry."

There was more truth than poetry in this statement. If they lost the golden goose—

Merrie said, "I'm sorry," without sounding sorry at all.

"That fellow you were with—I didn't like his looks, Merrie."

She giggled. "And I don't think he liked yours."

"What'd he say?" Quickly—too quickly.

"He didn't mention you."

"I see. Where were you until this hour of the morning?"

"Who are you—my Dutch uncle?"

"I only wanted to know because what happens to you affects me more than I can ever tell you."

Again Curt was being extremely truthful.

"I believe that I've mentioned before that I love you."

In the midst of a yawn Merrie said, "Well, this is no time to repeat it. I'm off for a little shut-eye. Thanks for calling. S'long, Curt."

ON GUARD

That afternoon Merrie met Gwen. They lunched at a queer Bohemian place where two men viewed Merrie with interest.

She thought Gwen exchanged glances with one of the men but decided she must be mistaken.

Gwen was chatty and companionable enough. They laughed and gossiped together in an intimate friendly way, but there was something queer about Gwen.

Her eyes seldom met Merrie's and when they did by chance, there was a disturbing quality in them. In spite of herself Merrie was constantly on guard.

After lunching they wandered along Fifth avenue, looking in the shop windows and commenting on the displays.

They stopped in a fashionable jewelry salon, it couldn't be designated as a store, and purchased a fifteen hundred dollar ring for Merrie.

Just like that. It was a square amethyst with diamonds. Casually she wrote a check for it.

Merrie was glad when they went to a picture. In the darkness of the theater she was not obliged to put forth an effort.

And somehow it was an effort to be friendly and natural with Curt's strange sister.

Afterward Gwen complained of a headache and decided not to go with Merrie and Curt to the Starlit Roof. Merrie was no sooner in a taxi than the pseudo Gwen called Curt.

"How'd you get along?" he asked.

"Well enough for our purpose. She's a canny dame. Doesn't suspect anything but she sure didn't give me much of a tumble."

"Tomorrow will end it. Monday we pull the deal."

PLANS

"Am I glad? I wasn't cut out for a debutante."

Curt laughed. "No, you were cut out for something more dangerous."

Don't forget that you promised to cut loose from the little sap tomorrow night. I have plans for you and me."

"Okay, baby. Your plans are most decidedly my plans for tomorrow night."

"By the way, Jake Hawley and one of the boys were in the cafe this afternoon. They trailed us up Fifth Avenue."

"What are they up to?" in swift alarm.

"Just checking up, I suppose. Getting the dame spotted. If you don't make a killing they will."

"Jake gave me two weeks—"

"I know—keep your vest buttoned, big boy. You'll have the dough Monday. Leave it to little Peachy."

Curt mopped his forehead after hanging up the receiver. The more desperately he tried to wriggle out of his dilemma the more he became involved.

AT HER MERCY

Now it was Peachy. He had intended that their relations should be strictly businesslike, but he was at her mercy and already in her toils. For the time being Peachy made the rules.

And afterward—what then? Curt had heard wild tales of Peachy's mastery prowess with a dagger when displeased.

She had never been known to use a revolver, but her dagger technique was known and feared throughout the underworld.

Curt mopped his brow again. Peachy was as dangerous as a ticking bomb.

Meanwhile, as Merrie drove out Park avenue, her thoughts were filled with Jim Blanchard. Somehow her viewpoint had shifted. She dreaded the hilarious hours at the Starlit Roof.

"I'd rather go for a ride in his funny old car," she thought. "I'm sick to death of night clubs and floor shows and publicity and— and everything.

"Till drop out of sight, take a smaller apartment and see lots of Jim Blanchard. I may even buy a little place in the country. With $10,000 I can have anything I want."

It had not yet occurred to Merrie that even $10,000 had certain limitations, that she had been spending like a drunken sailor for a week.

She had not bothered to jot down her expenditures on the check stubs. To Merrie $10,000 was a never ending stream of gold.

2427 GET OLD AGE AID IN STATE

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—Californians, numbering 2427 were among the more than 53,000 persons who received lump-sum settlements in 1937 under the old-age insurance system of the federal social security act, Morgan Shea, acting manager of the Social Security board in Sacramento, announced today.

The total settlements were $1,277,516 and the Californians received $63,719. The average payment in California was $26.25 as compared with the national average of $24.

Shea said the payments were made to the estates or near relatives of workers who died after the old age insurance program became effective Jan. 1, 1937 and to persons who attained the age of 65 since that date.

Both settlements were computed at 3 1/2 per cent of wages earned between Jan. 1, 1937 and the date of death or attainment of the age of 65.

A sharp upturn in volume of claims and also in average payment in recent months are shown by the figures released today.

Shea pointed out that payments made to California residents during December amounted to more than half as much as those made in the first 11 months of 1937.

BUYS YACHT

BOSTON. (AP)—Sale of the 75-foot auxiliary ketch Avon to Errol Flynn, motion picture star, was announced today by John G. Alden, yacht broker.

Allden said Flynn intended to take the ketch to Florida in March before leaving on a game fishing expedition in the Bahamas.

Turkey plans a broader exploitation of its mineral resources.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

Four months ago yesterday W. A. Zimmerman, 920 West Myrtle street, Santa Ana, was operated on for cancer. The writer called at his home last Sunday and had a short talk with him and Mrs. Zimmerman. He is a glad to report that Zimmerman is improving in strength and has an optimistic attitude toward the future. However, he is still confined to his bed the most of the time and it must necessarily be that a considerable period must elapse before he is restored to health sufficient to get out of doors again.

In the meantime short visits by the Townsends at his home or written messages will help him to while the time away.

Another member of the Townsends who is still needing to be cheered up is Mrs. Edith Wilson. She is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital being treated for injuries sustained on New Year's eve when she was run over by an automobile at Tenth and North Main streets in Santa Ana.

She is improving, according to latest reports. Santa Ana club No. 6 membership in its meeting last Tuesday night unanimously decided that a postcard shower on Mrs. Wilson would be appreciated.

So here's suggesting that other Townsends send cards expressing appreciation because of her improvement. Send cards to her in care of the Santa Ana Valley hospital, Wellington avenue, Santa Ana.

Don't forget that pie and coffee which Santa Ana club No. 10 is serving for 15 cents tonight in Santa Ana Town hall at 509 West Fourth street. A regular club meeting will be held starting at 7:30 o'clock with Edith L. Paul presiding in the chair.

Rev. T. W. Ringland, United Brethren pastor of Whittier, will be the speaker tonight at Santa Ana club No. 11 meeting held in Franklin school at 1512 West Fourth street at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Velma Stroud will furnish entertainment. She will dance and sing with Mrs. Janet Martin as her accompanist.

Something of a surprise nature will be on the evening program, according to Grant Henderson, president.

Over in Orange at 7:30 tonight, Senator Harry C. Westover will address club No. 2, which meets in the Townsend club building at 149 South Glassell street. Mrs. Abbie Gould, president, will preside.

J. S. Freeman reports that 350 Townsends were present last Tuesday evening to hear Judge M. C. Summers talk on the subject, "Money in Jail." From reports Freeman makes of the address it must have been a hot one. It seems that Judge Summers practically dramatized his lecture, which was two hours in length with never a dull moment.

Freeman says that the crowd was kept in a mood of merriment from beginning to end. It will be pleasant news to the Townsends to hear that Judge Summers has been booked to appear in Santa Ana in the near future. Sometime in the latter part of February he and Mrs. Summers will start east on another tour of Townsend speaking.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mapes, 1704 North Ross street, and Mrs. Elmie Swan, 906 1/2 West Highland, left this morning for Cathedral City, near Palm Springs. A brother of Mrs. Mapes, L. M. Van Slyke, and his wife of Beverly Hills, also Rev. Richard Gay and wife from Birmingham, Ala., will meet the Santa Ana folks in the desert city for a two-weeks outing. Nine other friends from the Beverly Hills vicinity will join the party. A. M. Mapes will return Monday to be on hand to prepare for the big Townsend meeting hall next Tuesday evening, being sponsored by his club No. 6, jointly with Santa Ana club No. 8. After the meeting he will join the outing group.

Mr. Van Slyke is president of a Beverly Hills Townsend club and up until Jan. 1 was a member of the 16th district Townsend board. Rev. Richard Gay is active in the Townsend work in the state of Alabama, having organized the first Townsend club in Birmingham.

Roy J. Webb was a caller at the home of Mrs. J. S. Freeman home in Anaheim last Monday evening. He reported Mrs. Webb up and around again, having recovered rapidly from her recent operation in Loma Linda hospital. Mr. Webb will be leaving for Chicago sometime today or tomorrow. He addressed the Anaheim Townsend meeting staged in the club building last evening. Details of his address will be given later in this column.

Mrs. W. L. Campbell, new press correspondent for Fullerton club No. 2, writes of a short business session which the club will hold at 7:30 tonight in the recreational room of the California hotel at North Spadra and Wilshire streets with a public card party following at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be given players and also a door prize will be offered. Refreshments will be served during the evening. The new club officers recently elected are Walter Schulz, president; Florence Davis, vice president; Florence Farrell, secretary, and M. G. Overend, treasurer. With this group in charge of the club's activities there will be something doing, the writer predicts. This column appreciates hearing from you, Mrs. Campbell, and requests that hereafter you send your notice a little earlier and address it to the writer at lock box 441, Santa Ana.

at 7:30 o'clock with Edith L. Paul presiding in the chair.

Rev. T. W. Ringland, United Brethren pastor of Whittier, will be the speaker tonight at Santa Ana club No. 11 meeting held in Franklin school at 1512 West Fourth street at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Velma Stroud will furnish entertainment. She will dance and sing with Mrs. Janet Martin as her accompanist.

Something of a surprise nature will be on the evening program, according to Grant Henderson, president.

Over in Orange at 7:30 tonight, Senator Harry C. Westover will address club No. 2, which meets in the Townsend club building at 149 South Glassell street. Mrs. Abbie Gould, president, will preside.

J. S. Freeman reports that 350 Townsends were present last Tuesday evening to hear Judge M. C. Summers talk on the subject, "Money in Jail." From reports Freeman makes of the address it must have been a hot one. It seems that Judge Summers practically dramatized his lecture, which was two hours in length with never a dull moment.

Freeman says that the crowd was kept in a mood of merriment from beginning to end. It will be pleasant news to the Townsends to hear that Judge Summers has been booked to appear in Santa Ana in the near future. Sometime in the latter part of February he and Mrs. Summers will start east on another tour of Townsend speaking.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mapes, 1704 North Ross street, and Mrs. Elmie Swan, 906 1/2 West Highland, left this morning for Cathedral City, near Palm Springs. A brother of Mrs. Mapes, L. M. Van Slyke, and his wife of Beverly Hills, also Rev. Richard Gay and wife from Birmingham, Ala., will meet the Santa Ana folks in the desert city for a two-weeks outing. Nine other friends from the Beverly Hills vicinity will join the party. A. M. Mapes will return Monday to be on hand to prepare for the big Townsend meeting hall next Tuesday evening, being sponsored by his club No. 6, jointly with Santa Ana club No. 8. After the meeting he will join the outing group.

Mr. Van Slyke is president of a Beverly Hills Townsend club and up until Jan. 1 was a member of the 16th district Townsend board. Rev. Richard Gay is active in the Townsend work in the state of Alabama, having organized the first Townsend club in Birmingham.

Roy J. Webb was a caller at the home of Mrs. J. S. Freeman home in Anaheim last Monday evening. He reported Mrs. Webb up and around again, having recovered rapidly from her recent operation in Loma Linda hospital. Mr. Webb will be leaving for Chicago sometime today or tomorrow. He addressed the Anaheim Townsend meeting staged in the club building last evening. Details of his address will be given later in this column.

Mrs. W. L. Campbell, new press correspondent for Fullerton club No. 2, writes of a short business session which the club will hold at 7:30 tonight in the recreational room of the California hotel at North Spadra and Wilshire streets with a public card party following at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be given players and also a door prize will be offered. Refreshments will be served during the evening. The new club officers recently elected are Walter Schulz, president; Florence Davis, vice president; Florence Farrell, secretary, and M. G. Overend, treasurer. With this group in charge of the club's activities there will be something doing, the writer predicts. This column appreciates hearing from you, Mrs. Campbell, and requests that hereafter you send your notice a little earlier and address it to the writer at lock box 441, Santa Ana.

JUDGE HITS LOVE SUITS IN COURT

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Breach of promise suits, said Superior Judge Frank G. Swain from the bench today, "ought to be prohibited."

But he awarded $1000 damages to Mrs. Barbara Wheeler, 63, white-haired widow formerly of Joliet, Ill., from Stephen B. Dexter, 68, former Aurora, Ill., minister, because such suits are "recognized by our law."

The woman had asked $50,000 damages charging her heart had been broken when Dexter refused to go through with the wedding after Mrs. Wheeler failed to invest money in his business enterprise. In the trial Dexter contended he had promised to marry only on condition Mrs. Wheeler make a substantial investment.

"I believe an action for breach of promise to marry ought to be prohibited," said Judge Swain in his decision.

"I say this without any reflection on Mrs. Wheeler. I say it because it is better that the law should allow a person to withdraw from a distasteful engagement rather than penalize a person for not consummating a marriage which in all probability would be doomed to failure."

COURT UPHOLDS LOAFING TRIAL

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Loitering around public schools is not a constitutional right, the district court of appeals held today.

The appellate department of the superior court had prohibited a municipal court from trying Michael Phillips on a charge of loitering near the Crescent Heights school, on the ground the complaint did not state a public offense.

Phillips, who had contended the penal code section on loitering was vague and indefinite, today was ordered to trial.

"If the constitution guarantees the petitioner the right to loiter," said the ruling by Justice Charles Crail, "it certainly does not guarantee him the right to loiter in places where promiscuous loitering may endanger the peace and safety of our school children on account of immoral desires of some who may exercise such right."

Justice Walton Wood concurred, while Justice Marshall McComb dissented.

Memorial Will Honor Russian Polar Fliers

SAN JACINTO. (AP)—A memorial commemorating the landing of the Soviet trans-polar plane which flew here from Moscow last July 14 is being projected by the city planning committee of the newly formed San Jacinto Civic Federation, it was announced here.

The Russian fliers, who made the flight from Moscow in 62 hours, 20 minutes, landed in a cow pasture near here, but the memorial will be placed in the city park.

The Soviet government has indicated, through its consul in San Francisco, that it will be officially represented at the formal dedication of the monument late next spring.

Jap Fishermen Get Warning

AMSTERDAM. (AP)—The Netherlands. (AP)—A government spokesman disclosed today The Netherlands had "intensified" her naval and air strength in East Indian waters because of increasing numbers of Japanese fishing vessels in waters important in The Netherlands' defense plans.

Willard School Notes

Keith Jones will remain president of the commissioners for the rest of this year, Mrs. Grace Lund and Miss Mary Jane Seal, advisers to the student government, revealed in an exclusive story today.

Helen Holzgrafe and Elvin Hoots will remain safety captains.

In one of the closest races yet known, Dorothy Eley, Helen Butler, Hugh Brooks, and Joel Hayes were elected commissioners for next semester. Hugh and Joel tied at the beginning and were so tied at the finish of the race.

The results of the primary election last week produced a ballot with the names of six boys and five girls. From the ballot, the afore-mentioned commissioners were chosen. Those on the ballot included Hugh Brooks, Clarence Harvey, Joel Hayes, Elvin Hoots, Keith Jones, Pat Mercer, Irene Barp, Helen Butler, Dorothy Eley, Helen Holzgrafe, and Virginia Jordan.

Achievement tests in all subjects were given seventh graders through the arithmetic department last week. Each year at this same time these tests are given according to Miss Vanche E. Plumb, Willard counselor.

It was decided at the last meeting of the G. A. C. Wednesday, January 12, in room 105, to order blue and silver pins with a large W and the letters G. A. C. on them.

Frances Nall acted as chairman for the initiation of the new members held January 18. The girls wore pigtails and acted as stooges to the old members.

Plans for a picnic at Jack Fisher park were discussed at the meeting, Tuesday, January 18. "In the future meetings will be held once every month," Miss Wyllis Anderson, club sponsor, announced.

New members who were initiated are, Doris Jacobs, Janet McFadden, Peggy Paul, Anna Mae Burks, Janet Coffing, and Betty Platt. Old members are Helen Butler, Helen Holzgrafe, Dorothy Eley, Claire Lee McMillen, Betty Jean McMillen, Betty Crawford, Annie Cazares, Ineatta Woodward, Helen Garnell, Frances Nall, Helen Gomez, Geneva Sawyer and Lillian Tucker.

The Senior Girls Glee club, under the direction of Miss Helen Glancy, entertained the pupils of McKinley school Friday, January 7, by presenting them with a program of music.

As the opening number, the Glee club sang "Green Cathedral." This was followed by two solos sung by Patsy Sheppard, "Land of the Sky Blue Waters" and "Slumber Boat." After this Lola Marie Harmon gave a tap dance in costume. "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" was the fifth and last number of the program, which was sung by the Glee club. Anna Mae Burks acted as accompanist for the musical number.

"The object of the Sea Fans visit to Palos Verdes Saturday, January 8, was to study the fossils of the fish and animals imbedded there," Lowell Schmid, sponsor of the club, stated today. Many interesting and unusual bones were examined.

The amusement park on the Pike at Long Beach was the recreation center where the members had lunch and rode the various pleasure devices.

"Our second trip to Laguna Beach on Saturday, January 15, afforded an excellent time for the study of live animals as there was an exceptionally low tide," Mr. Schmid concluded.

A picnic was held at Irvine park by Girl Scout troop three Sunday, January 16. Among the many amusements enjoyed were boating, bicycling through the park, and playing games in the playground. The picnic dinner was served at 6 o'clock by Marguerite Baker, chairman of the foods committee.

Following dinner the girls sang scout songs around the large stage in the park. After a busy Sunday afternoon, the scouts left for home at 9 o'clock. Transportation was furnished by the girls' mothers.

Miss Martha Tuthill and Miss Alberta Greene, leaders, accompanied the scouts.

Melva Burke, inter-club councilman of last year's Girl Reserves, has been elected to the higher office of president, succeeding Beatrice Holman, at a meeting of the ninth grade Girl Reserves in room 105, Monday, January 10.

Other new officers include Mary

Ann Andrews, vice president; Marguerite Woods, secretary; Betty Banks, treasurer; Doris Jacobs, inter-club council; and Genevieve Westman, reporter.

The Junior Audubon society, sponsored by Miss Vanche Plumb, went on a bird-walk Tuesday, January 11, making lists of the birds seen. The members divided into several groups, going different ways. Upon meeting at the close of the afternoon, they found that 15 different kinds of birds were seen.

At a recent meeting the members have been discussing winter birds, particularly the robin, western blue bird, Audubon warbler, Cedar waxwing, and the Gambels sparrow.

The inter-club council of polytechnic high Tri-Y, Julia Lathrop and Willard Junior High school Girl Reserve clubs will hold a convocation at Emma Otis Y. W. C. A. camp Friday and Saturday, January 21-22. "There they will discuss plans for the coming years," explained Miss Wyllis Anderson, leader for the Willard ninth grade club. The inter-club council consists of the presidents and inter-club councilman of each of the clubs.

The councilman for the Julia Lathrop ninth grade club is Eunice Bond and the president is Anita Wasson. The eighth grade members of the inter-club council are: President, Mary Zahn; councilman, Marian Ashland; seventh grade: President, Norma Lane; councilman, Marian Sladding.

Plans for a picnic at Jack Fisher park were discussed at the meeting, Tuesday, January 18. "In the future meetings will be held once every month," Miss Wyllis Anderson, club sponsor, announced.

New members who were initiated are, Doris Jacobs, Janet McFadden, Peggy Paul, Anna Mae Burks, Janet Coffing, and Betty Platt. Old members are Helen Butler, Helen Holzgrafe, Dorothy Eley, Claire Lee McMillen, Betty Jean McMillen, Betty Crawford, Annie Cazares, Ineatta Woodward, Helen Garnell, Frances Nall, Helen Gomez, Geneva Sawyer and Lillian Tucker.

The Polytechnic High school officer of the Tri-Y club to be president is Jacques Morrison.

Under the instruction of Mrs. Ruth Low, an experiment with hydrogen gas was conducted, Thursday, January 6, in room 112. The students generated the gas using hydrochloric acid and zinc chips, and then filled a balloon with it. Hydrogen gas is the lightest of all gases. After filling the balloon the let it escape, and it immediately rose in the air.

Jack Neff, Ed Scott, Ted Finster, and Harold Yost were victorious at the conclusion of the third round of the Willard tennis tournament during the week of January 10.

Jack Neff defeated Bob Grubb, 6-0; Ed Scott-Pat Mercer, 6-4; Ted Finster-Don Jerome, 6-2; Harold Yost-Jimmie Mair, 7-5.

In the first of the semi-final tennis matches Ed Scott was the winner, defeating Ted Finster with a score of 6-3. Semi-final matches consist of one set only and should be played as soon as possible. Herbert Michel, tennis coach, announced today. All tennis games will be played on Willard courts, Mr. Michel concluded.

The after school speedball season started Tuesday, January 11, with a good turnout. There were 30 girls from the seventh grade and 35 from the eighth. The first practice for the ninth grade was held Thursday, January 13.

Captains will be elected and teams will be chosen January 20, according to Miss Wyllis Anderson. She also announced that inter-class games will begin February 1. The speedball season will probably be an interesting one for all classes have good teams.

"Ladies and gentlemen, you probably all know that the hand is quicker than the eye." So spoke Keith Jones, exhibiting his slight-of-hand tricks before the admiring eyes of members of the Rebecca Lodge in the I. O. O. F. hall, Monday, January 3.

Keith played a very important part in the entertainment presented by the Willard Drama club. Besides entrancing the people by his magic, he took the male lead in the comedy, "Dixon's Kitchen." Others in the cast were Mary Jo Haskell, who took the feminine lead, Sallie Tiernan, Jack Howard, Howard Bedford and Winson Porteous.

The amusement park on the Pike at Long Beach was the recreation center where the members had lunch and rode the various pleasure devices.

"Our second trip to Laguna Beach on Saturday, January 15, afforded an excellent time for the study of live animals as there was an exceptionally low tide," Mr. Schmid concluded.

WRECKAGE OF PLANE FOUND

SEATTLE. (AP)—The navy today took charge of charred and barnacled remnants of an unidentified airplane found Tuesday off Protection island, Strait of Juan De Fuca, by fishermen.

The wreckage, entangled in a fishing net, included several metal understructure braces, an unopened parachute, unignited flare and a wheel with a badly burned tire which bore the identifying marks "Firestone 250-1608."

Attempts to recover other pieces of wreckage from the deep water, midway between Port Townsend and Dungeness, were unsuccessful.

CURTAIL TEXAS OIL PRODUCERS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The state railroad commission today ordered all oil fields in Texas shut down for the next six Sundays.

The allowable for the other six days of the week was not changed. Currently it is slightly above 1,400,000 barrels daily, and will increase due to well completions.

The commission simultaneously urged other oil producing states "to do their just part in boldly reducing production so that the efficient, legitimate producers and refiners can be protected and not driven out of business by monopoly."

Seek 15 Million Navy Depot for Oakland Site

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Chairman Walsh (D. Mass.), of the senate naval affairs committee requested the house naval committee to include authorization for a $15,000,000 supply depot at Oakland, in a pending omnibus shore establishment bill.

The item was stricken from the measure by the senate committee at the last session because of a dispute over a site. Walsh said subsequent studies convinced him Oakland was the "most suitable" location for a base on San Francisco bay.

PROBE DEATH OF OFFICER

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Lieut. Col. F. McDonald, 51, commanding officer of the 3rd battalion of the 17th infantry at Fort Leavenworth, was found shot to death yesterday near a little used road on the fort reservation.

Military authorities and Federal Bureau of Identification agents launched an immediate investigation.

The officer was last seen by friends about 5:30 o'clock as he left his quarters and drove away.

Colvin Seely, a PWA worker, reported to military police he found the body as he walked along the highway.

Provost Marshal Lafferty said the army officer's body was about 20 feet from his parked automobile. He said a 45 army pistol was under the body, but he had not determined immediately if it had been fired.

SEAMEN SEEK WAR EMBARGO

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The National Maritime Unity conference asked the government today to apply President Roosevelt's suggested "quarantine of aggression" to Germany, Italy and Japan.

The convention, composed mostly of CIO leaders claiming to represent 100,000 American sea-going men, asked the government to declare an "embargo" against the three nations.

"Neutrality by the United States," said a convention resolution, "has tended to aid the aggressors by permitting the shipment of arms and other commodities to those nations guilty of invading Spain and China."

John L. Lewis, chief of the CIO, telegraphed that a previous commitment would prevent him from addressing the convention.

The job of drafting a national maritime federation constitution also was undertaken by convention delegates.

Plans are being considered for uncovering a town near Alexandria, Egypt, known as Taposiris Magna and founded in the time of the Ptolemies.

High School Notes

STUDENT BODY ELECTION
Larry Stump was elected president of the high school student body in the election held recently. A second election was necessary to determine the selection of other officers. Eugene Hamaker defeated Karl Crist for vice president by a close margin. Harriet Spicer defeated Chelena McBurney for secretary. Don Warhurst won over Barney Robinson for commissioner of athletics, and Jack Sullivan defeated Howard Rapp for commissioner of finance.

Members of the self-government committee elected at the same time were George Higashi and Wayne Piper, boys' self-government; Pat Emison and Lorraine Tarbox, girls' self-government.

Elections were very close, with only a few votes determining the winners.

GENERATOR STAFF
Appointments on the staff of next semester's Generator, the high school weekly, have been announced by Miss Vesta Nickerson, faculty advisor.

Robert Scott will act as editor, filling the vacancy left by Jimmy Tucker, who will graduate. Robert was feature editor of the paper last semester and is senior editor of the Ariel.

Margaret Schmitz will occupy the new position of news editor. Margaret is clubs editor of the Ariel and was a member of the Generator staff last year. The position of feature editor will be filled by Alan Hollingsworth. Alan also holds the position of calendar editor of the Ariel staff.

Other appointments include Virginia Hurst, clubs editor; Ben Steffen, sports editor; Dorothy Sheahan, advertising manager; and Marjorie Nunan, assistant advertising manager.

C. S. F. MEMBERS
Morris Cohen, Rodger Engel and Jimmie Tucker were awarded the gold pins which signify life membership in the California Scholarship federation. To receive this award it is necessary to have been a member of the Honor society for four semesters, one of which must be in the senior year.

Requirement for the Honor society membership are a citizenship rating of 90 or above, and three semester grades of A and one of B.

ORATORICAL CONTEST
Defeating eight other contestants, Frank Was received prize in the oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion. Speakers were to deal with the constitution, and were judged on delivery and the content of their talk. Frank received a medal and will enter a tri-city contest. A county contest will follow, the winner of which will receive $100.

Don Mozley and Karl Crist were awarded second and third prizes respectively. Other contestants were Ben Ble, Hugh Lowe, Tom Engleman, Ena Smith, Bette Willets, and Jimmie Tucker.

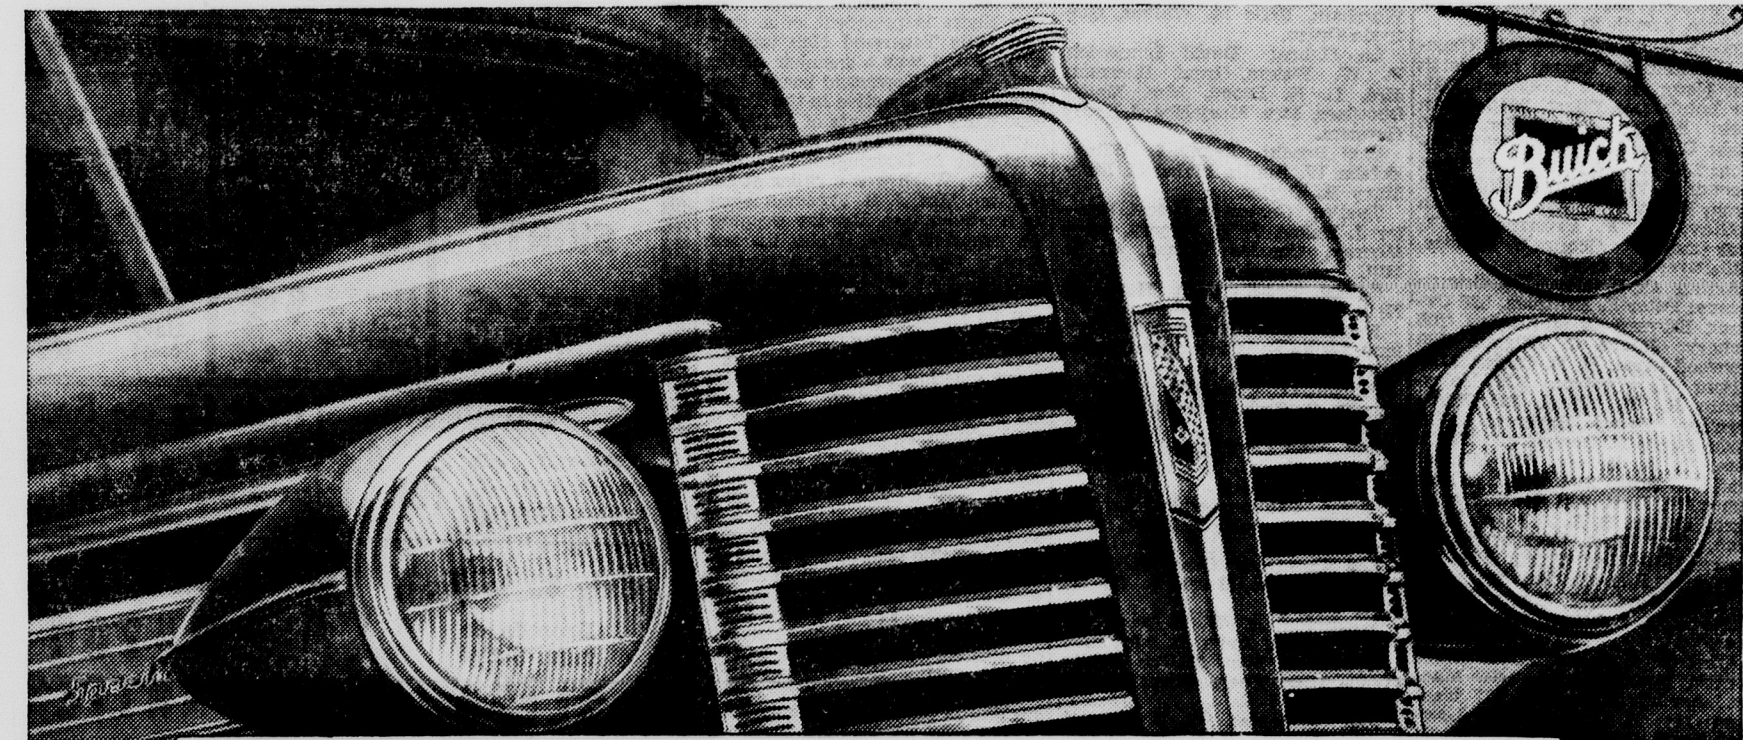

MORE NEW BOOKS
A recent addition to the school library includes many well known books. "With Malice Toward None" by Honore Willie Morrow, "The Plutocrat" by Booth Tarkington, "Lad, a Dog" by Albert Payson Terhune, and "The Moon Stone" and "The Woman in White" by Wilkie Collins number among this group.

Other new books include "The Long Rifle" and "The Story of California" by Stewart Edward White, "No Other White Men" by Julia Davis, "Sandra's Cellar," and "Saddle and Bridle" by Fjeril Hess, "They Also Serve" by Peter B. Kyne, "Head Tide" by Joseph C. Lincoln, "Texas Cowboys" by Dave Coolidge, and "Tom Sawyer Detective" and "Tom Sawyer Abroad" by Mark Twain.

COUNCIL MEMBERS SPEAK
Ernest Layton, Lew Blodget, Fred Rowland, and Plummer Bruns spoke to civics classes recently on organization of city government. In conjunction with their study of city government, these civics students attended the city council meeting last Monday.

News About El Toro Folks

By MRS. CARRIE G. DREWS

A wedding shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Moore (Charlena Tait) in the El Toro hall Saturday evening by her friends of this community. Charlena is the daughter of Mrs. John House and was born and reared in our little village. On their arrival at the hall, they were captured, and a bridal veil (tea towel) was placed on her head and a bridal bouquet, made up of a rolling pin, fly swatters, dish mops, brushes, clothes pins and the like, all dolled up with cellophane flowers, was placed in her arms. Also a large button-hole bouquet was pinned on the bridegroom. George Fox and Mrs. Edith Evans, the bride's aunt, marched in with them to the music of "Here Comes the Bride," played by Mrs. Raymond Prothero.

Although it was raining a group of neighbors gathered at the home of L. F. Moulton's Tuesday evening, and had a very enjoyable visit, talking over the days of many years ago.

D. B. Vaughan, his wife and three children have just moved here from Pomona, where he has been serving as relief operator and agent of the Santa Fe railroad for some time. All citizens in this community wishing to have Western Union telegraph service restored, should get in touch with him as soon as possible, as this service would mean so much to El Toro.

Thomas Swartz was taken to a Santa Ana hospital Wednesday. He has been ill in Mrs. Minnie Swartz' home for many weeks.

Bob Davis of Lansford, N. D., has been a visitor in E. A. Whisler's home. He tells of the dust storms, the dry years and the grasshoppers back home, but he says the grasshoppers are the worst of all and that this year the plowed ground is yellow with grasshopper eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bennett and Mrs. Clara Hilyard of Santa Ana have returned from a trip to Seligman, Ariz. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lukens, manager of the Harvey House at Seligman.

Our fourth grade children visited the San Juan Capistrano mission Tuesday, where they were shown through the mission and grounds. They were also allowed to feed the mission pigeons.

Mrs. D. W. Gould is spending a few days with her son, Bruce, who is living in Tustin, near the Holly Sugar factory.

46 REPORTED KILLED IN SCHOOL FIRE

ST. HYACINTHE. (Canadian Press)—Officials of the College of the Sacred Heart counted 46 of its teachers and students as dead today in the fire which leveled the 37-year-old brick building early Tuesday.

The bodies of only 26 victims, however, had been recovered from the wreckage, all that remained of the structure in which more than

BICYCLE WOOPER TRAVELS Radio On Wheel Aids Romeo

EAST BETHANY, N. Y. (AP)—When it comes to wooing a girl few things beat a nice streamlined 1938 model bicycle—especially if it's equipped with a powerful six-tube radio.

100 persons had been trapped in their sleep.

Paul Emile Prefontaine, previously listed as one of those believed to have perished, was reported today by his parents to have reached home during the confusion.

This musing came today from a weatherbeaten, 22-year-old farmhand, Joseph Barclay, who thinks nothing of pedaling 100 miles "every other Sunday" to call on his girl—or girls.

"I thought things were going to be pretty tough when they took away my driver's license for reckless driving and I couldn't drive my car two years ago, then I thought of this," he said as he placed a calloused hand on his "super special bicycle."

Barclay's wheel is fully equipped with a six-tube radio set in a basket on the handlebars, an automobile aerial and a battery to run the outfit on a carrier over the rear wheel.

Barclay said he had a girl in Alexander, N. Y., and one in Williamsville, N. Y., and tried to "make the circuit (100 miles per round trip) every other Sunday."

Accompanied on his long distance cycling by hill billy tunes and swing music, Barclay explained "it was just like a short trip to the store."

Brazil's coffee exports are the lowest in years.

CITIES OPEN TIDELAND OIL FIGHT

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Counsel for the cities of Los Angeles and Long Beach told a special assembly interim committee here that the cities are entitled to minerals under tideland grants received from the state.

The committee on revenues and taxation is trying to decide whether the state or the two cities own the oil found on the lands.

Ray Chesebro, Los Angeles city attorney, and George W. Trammell, attorney for Long Beach, said that since the state turned over the tidelands to the cities it transferred thereby all interests in the land.

Webb Shadle, speaking for the state, said the grants were "grants in trust for harbor and navigation purposes only," and that California is owner of the minerals "by virtue of its sovereignty."

THE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

By DONALD BUTTON

At Whittier one finds real enthusiasm for the arts.

I went over Sunday to see the first exhibition in their new gallery (a schoolhouse with ample grounds loaned to them by the board of education) and could not help remarking at the enthusiasm that pervaded the whole place.

There were several spirited discussions going on, about everything was smiling. It seemed a friendly and inviting place.

Pictures were interspersed with fine craftsmanship and very exciting flower arrangements.

Of the pictures, I singled out a Mexican scene by Jim Bolius for its drawing, its cork and copper framing.

Raymond Brown indicated his brush ability in a still life. Choice of material for the composition is the thing I would question.

In the rest of the pictures there was great variety of approach. Almost entirely the work of Whittier residents, the show indicates tremendous interest on the part of people there.

Talking afterward with Roger Hollenbeck (a senior at U. S. C. and one of Lukens' outstanding pupils, I learned the Whittier association has been organized about three years, and that the building at the corner of Pickering and Broadway is, in reality, their first home.

Exhibitions used to be held in store-buildings, and one was staged at the Woman's club, but such arrangements were never entirely satisfactory.

This first show, under the able direction of President Hague, is to be followed with month-long one man shows by artist-members.

It all sounds very interesting. I think, and I more than look forward to progress on the north.

Hollenbeck, to me, is the bright and shining star of the northern (Whittier) lights.

His bowls in this exhibition indicate a great resourcefulness, a real ability to define shape.

His ability for shapes in ever-evident in his painting and design, as well.

A paper just finished Sunday (the problem was an over pattern for a desert house) featured a country store (with piazza) in chartreuse and burgundy as first theme, with a larger, fainter pattern of frogs outlined for a secondary movement.

He showed me several plates that immediately suggested their being picked up for examination.

Further examination of his design revealed that strong reiteration of shape while maintaining the desired flatness and injecting life into what might have been commonplace pattern.

He is to have a show at the Whittier gallery in May, and the pictures therein will be shown at the library here immediately following.

In the other direction, there is considerable activity toward Laguna's February-March print show.

Prizes totaling $60 are offered, and many eastern artists have indicated their desire to compete for them.

Joan Baker, Hollywoodite, whose prints are concerned with rhythms in a most advanced manner, will enter three of them.

Eugene Morley, who was first honorable mention winner in the Philadelphia Art alliance show just before Christmas is seeding and Eleanor Coburn, whose first lithography was also a this show, is to be represented.

It also augurs well!

Devoting the entire gallery to the print show will be, I think, the most interesting event to date in President Wesley Wall's administration.

Black-and-whites (in any medium) have hitherto been barred from the main gallery. Their placing there is even exciting!

The show opens Feb. 1, so put it in your engagement book!

Civic pride rearing its head at the same time will more or less demand Santa Ana take a real interest in the photographic show that is being assembled at the library here.

Official groups of prints are to come from both the Los Angeles Camera club and the Los Angeles Pictorialists.

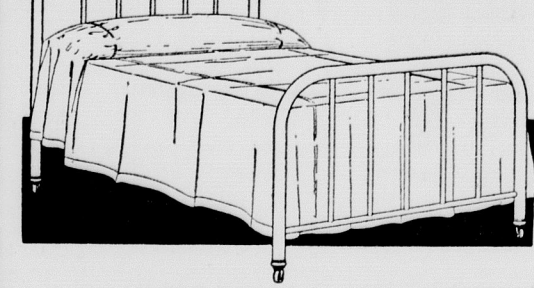

I have already indicated the arrival of William Tillery's "Cacti" (which might well be key point of the entire show, it is so luminously beautiful).

February brings a gala season for the arts to Orange county. I hope you're to make the most of it!

BOY SCOUTS TO AID IN PARALYSIS FIGHT

WILL CONDUCT SALES OF LAPEL PINS

Drive Directed By Scout Executive White

Approximately 60 Boy Scouts and their leaders throughout the county were named today by Scout Executive Harrison White to assist in the fight against infantile paralysis by conducting a sale of lapel pins Saturday among all persons who are not yet wearing them.

Letters were issued today by Eva Curry, secretary to White, to the following boys or scout leaders asking their cooperation in the matter: From Santa Ana—Charles Huffman, Roy Gowdy, Randolph Clark, Jimmie Yamada, Herbert Scott, David Hearle, Wilton Pasenkopp, Warren McCarty, Jr., Jimmy Wyckoff, Howard Bedford, Eugene Frisby, Bill Meador, Donald Fipps, Kenneth Ainsworth.

Anaheim—Norman Shrode, John Heinz, Bob Grizzle, Donald Bauer and James Starr; Orange—Harry Proffitt, Bob Perkins; Fullerton—Billy Phillips, John Daniel, Stewart Hunter, Herbert Bergen, Jr., Francis Howell, Norman Peak, Donald Cook; Huntington Beach—Warren Wilson, Jack Lynch, Walter Dahney, Jr.; Brea—Edward Craig, Dale Varner; Newport Beach—John Droege, Zellar Robertson, Buddy Grodon; La Habra—Eldon Knaus, Eddie Brewster; Garden Grove—Ernie Fritcher, Bob Joyce; Costa Mesa—Art Gibson, Richard Ott, Buena Park—Gerald Rayburn; Westminster—Francis Dell; Laguna Beach—William Baker; Cypress—Aubrey Fisher, Emmett Barnett; Yorba Linda—Jimmy Eichler; Placentia—Jack Patton; Seal Beach—Milton Hughes; Bowdler; Wilkerson; Tustin—Jack Brand; Talbot—Harry Giesler; San Juan Capistrano—Bob Cook; Los Alamitos—Scoutmaster F. A. Ward.

The above-mentioned scouts and their leaders will conduct the drive under the direction of Scout Executive White and Fred Merker, the latter being chairman of the Orange county committee raising funds for the Infantile Paralysis Foundation. The lapel pins cost a dime apiece.

PENSION ACT TALK SUBJECT

The California state retirement act will be explained to members of the Orange county and Santa Ana chapters of the California State Employees association at a joint meeting of the group in the Santa Ana city hall this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All state employees are cordially invited to attend, according to D. K. Brown, Earl Chapman, secretary of the retirement fund, will be the principal speaker of the evening. It is expected Bruce Thomas, newly-appointed executive secretary of the association, will also be a featured speaker.

The Orange county chapter of the association, headed by Ray Yarns, has a membership consisting of persons employed with the board of equalization, the state highway maintenance department, state department of agriculture, state unemployment compensation division and the state employment office. Santa Ana chapter No. 53 comprises a roll largely of workers in the administrative office of the SRA with Chester Page as president.

I Just Found Out

Aviation for Women

—By—
MILLARD BROWNE

"I have always wanted to fly. Perhaps it's because the sky—that great, unknown, endless ceiling—has held a magnetic charm for me . . . and because I've always liked to run mechanical things, beginning with a tricycle and including bicycles, motorcycles, speed boats and automobiles."

That's Marybilly Quinn's own explanation of why she took to the air some eight years ago. She wrote the description herself just after she became Transport Pilot No. 12647. And now, some 6500 flying hours later, the "endless ceiling" and thrill of running mechanical things hold the same overpowering fascination for Santa Ana's only commercial aviatrix.

Completely engrossed in her profession, Mrs. Quinn shuns personal publicity, yet welcomes any publicity that will help aviation. That's why her neighbors (she lives at 415 South Broadway) know less about her aerial career than most fellow aviatrixes she's never met, who recognize her as one of the few women pilots listed in the Blue Book of Aviation—and as current holder of the world's altitude record for women.

Anything but a "fair-weather" flier herself, the Santa Ana aviatrix thinks every field of aviation helps—at least in some small way—to promote commercial flying. Crack-ups, she concedes, are temporary setbacks, but not nearly as bad as interrupting schedules because commercial airlines are over-cautions.

Mrs. Quinn says she'll never voluntarily retire. "I'm going to fly for the rest of my life—or until I can no longer pass the tests."

Which brings up a point she thinks might be cleared for the uninformed public: Pilots are made, not born. They're made by long, tedious hours of studying aerodynamics, navigation and meteorology; by weeks of mechanical work on the ground in which they roll up their sleeves and learn what makes airplanes tick by taking the things apart and putting them together; and by days of practice in the air—taking off, landing, flying in the rain and fog, day and night, looping, stunting, stalling.

Physical examinations are tougher each step along the way (steps being student, private, limited commercial and transport piloting). And pilots aren't allowed to fly commercially unless they are nearly perfect—in physique, practical mechanical experience, ability to handle a ship, and theoretical knowledge of aeronautical principles. Strict physical examinations are repeated every six months, but a transport license requires only one test in theory.

The government doesn't permit female pilots to be "cream-puffs." The examinations are just as strict, and there are no exemptions. That, and the fact that women "have two strikes on them," is what limits the number of women fliers, Mrs. Quinn believes. "Women who don't mind taking motors apart usually aren't the ones who would be likely to study such subjects as meteorology and navigation," she points out.

Resigned to the fact that women pilots never will be popularly accepted as the equal of masculine pilots, Mrs. Quinn even concedes that the average aviatrix isn't as dependable as the average aviator. "I'd rather ride with the few women pilots I do have confidence in."

Mrs. Quinn's made only two forced landings, once when someone put a handful of dust in her gas tank, again while she was trying out for her limited commercial license. That time, her plane was wrecked and she had to go through all her maneuvers in a strange ship—for though, than with any men I know."

Commercial airlines will not hire women to pilot their ships, though nearly every branch of commercial flying is open to them, Mrs. Quinn claims. Currently free-lancing, she's done most of her flying alone, either with a freight cargo or as an escort for other ships.

Aviation now is in a "recession," Mrs. Quinn believes. She blames depression and too-frequent crack-ups for the setback. "The whole industry's up in the air, and so much has to be changed," the local pilot declares. "But sooner or later it's bound to progress." She doesn't believe, however, that aviation ever will be accepted by the entire public.

Nearly all crashes could be avoided, in Mrs. Quinn's opinion, by three safety factors that have been constantly neglected: Thorough checkup of a ship before it takes off; pilots that are thoroughly schooled, and temperance. Drunk driving, she thinks, is as common in planes as in autos—and much more fatal.

Only serious wreck Mrs. Quinn has had, ironically, was in a car. It laid her up for several weeks, longest she's been grounded. Her biggest thrill: Plummeting several thousand feet toward the ground in an air-pocket in Gorgonian pass. The ship finally came out without a mishap.

FARM BUREAU SCHOOL IN 2ND SESSION

Farm Bureau officials go back to school tonight, for the second in a series of three officers' training classes under the direction of J. W. Crill, Garden Grove.

Speakers will include H. J. Heinrich, Orange; Mrs. W. O. Broady, Garden Grove; P. J. Ton, Yorba Linda, and Mrs. A. E. Christensen, Anaheim.

The officers training school has been inaugurated by the bureau as an annual affair, designed to acquaint officers and committeemen of the various farm centers and home departments with the conduct of their duties.

John Kennedy, Anaheim High school instructor, acts as general critic, and Mrs. F. W. Stanley, Tustin, as parliamentarian.

Santa Ana Student at Pomona Honored

It's First Lieutenant Edgar Pankey of Santa Ana now. The Pomona college senior was promoted to that post in the reserve officers' training corps today.

Reading of the promotion orders which made Pankey a cadet first lieutenant came at a special ceremony held as part of the annual military formal dance held in the new Pomona college union ballroom. He is member of Sigma Tau fraternity, and lives at R. D. 1, box 272.

BAD CHECK

In payment for $4.50 worth of groceries, a fictitious $43.14 check was passed on a grocery store on Broadway here, police were told yesterday. The check was made out to Carl Taylor, 515 East Chestnut street, and signed by a Lars Olson.

an inspector who'd been soured on women pilots.

The Santa Ana flier had been a buddy of Amelia Earhart ever since she started to fly, rates her one of the best fliers and "sweetest persons" she's ever known.

"Amelia went out just like she always said she wanted to. I think most pilots who love the game would rather be killed than drag along after they've been 'grounded' by poor eyesight or aging nerves."

Most exciting moment Mrs. Quinn can remember is the telephone call from New York years ago, when Dr. L. L. M. Pisculli asked her to co-pilot his "Flying Nurse" in a non-stop trip to Rome.

Her most disappointing experience, however, came a few weeks later, when she broke her leg ice skating at a farewell party in her honor just before she was scheduled to leave. The "Flying Nurse," in which Dr. Pisculli planned to compile data on the effects of a long flight on both masculine and feminine pilots (in re. fatigue as a cause of crashes), left without her and was never heard from.

FED MUSIC GROUP TO PLAY BRAHMS

Coincident with the launching of a campaign by the Santa Ana Business Men's association and Federal Music project advisory board to secure a capacity audience for the Federal symphony's next concert, Director Leon Eckles today announced the program for the affair.

Highlighting the performance will be Brahms' First Symphony, one of the greatest in the world's symphonic library. The orchestra will perform the Brahms work for the first time in Orange county.

Fred Newcomb, Carl Stein and Leonard Hurst, the civic advisory board, sent letters throughout the city today in an effort to inspire added interest in the event, slated for Feb. 3 in the Santa Ana High school auditorium.

Announcement cards, to be broadcast to the city's business firms, were enclosed in each letter.

The Brahms symphony, Director Eckles said, "is pure music of unforgettable beauty. . . . It is stamped as a work of superlative genius." The 50 members of the orchestra are undergoing daily rehearsals to assure an intelligent reading of the work.

Edward Burns, well-known Southern California cellist, will be featured in a solo, playing the beautiful "Kol Nidre," famous as a portion of the Hebrew ritual used in observing the Day of Atonement.

Concluding the performance will be the Der Freischütz overture of Weber, and Chabrier's ingenious "Espana Rhapsody."

COURT ALLOWS EXTRA FEES

Extra attorneys' and executors' fees amounting to $5800 were allowed today as Superior Judge Benjamin F. Warner of San Bernardino overruled objections to an accounting in the $2,500,000 Fannie Bixby Spencer estate.

Judge Warner, who has heard controversies in the estate here, denied exceptions of Elizabeth Irving Bixby, Lillian Odisho Bijon and Claire Whitaker, three heirs, to the third account in the Costa Mesa woman's estate, being administered by the Security-First National bank. Five thousand dollars additional fees were granted Denio, Hart, Taubman and Simpson, Los Angeles attorneys; $500 to Diehl and Anderson as attorneys, and $300 additional to the bank.

'Hobbies' Talk Wins Contest

Jack Snuffin's "Hobbies" stood him in good stead at this week's meeting of the Smedley Chapter of Toastmasters. Serving as the topic for his talk, they won him first place in the talk competition.

Second went to J. Lee Woods, for his address, "I'd Rather Be Right." Other speakers: Roy Gwaltney, in an opening craft talk; W. W. Cadwallader, "Beauty in Advertising;" Dr. J. P. Davis, "Checking Our Economic Hemorrhage;" J. B. Walden, "Preachment on Buying a Home."

Toastmaster for the evening was Harry Fink. George F. Angne acted as general critic.

Kiwanis, Farmers In Joint Meeting

Ivan McDaniel, attorney for the California - Arizona marketing agreement and attorney for the Agricultural Producers association, will be speaker at next Wednesday's joint meeting of the La Habra farm center and Kiwanis club, President R. E. Launer said today.

He will discuss recent events in Washington and certain aspects of the Wagner act. The meeting is slated for 8:10 p. m., at the Masonic temple. The regular Kiwanis program will precede the evening's talk.

Observe Golden Wedding

Hundreds of friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smiley, pioneer residents of Santa Ana, pictured above, are planning to share with them the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, which will be an event of next Monday.

The prominent couple, who have lived here since their marriage, are extending an open invitation to attend an informal reception at their home, 2800 North Flower street, between 3 and 7 p. m. Jan. 24.

BIG SURPLUS HAUNTS BEAN GROWERS

For sale—three million bags of beans, at any price.

That's the problem confronting Orange county bean growers today, Vernon C. Heil, county representative on the national bean surplus committee, admitted today. The national committee has been named to devise some means of disposing of the enormous crop surplus.

Committeemen met in King City early this week, with Steve Grisot representing the local growers' association, to outline preliminary sales campaign plans.

Heil announced that 15 carloads has been sold to the government agencies at a price of $4.40 a hundred, but that a bid of $2.75 per hundred for baby limas has been held over for further study, as too low. The second bid was received from agencies in the Tracy district.

Present plans call for disposal of most of the surplus to government agencies for resale or redistribution.

Cops Seek Drivers After Collision

Police today sought two drivers who assertedly refused to give their names after striking a bicycle and motorcycle last night.

One of the cars, registered to William Washburn, Los Angeles, struck a bicycle at First and Lyon street, and, according to Robert Lindsey who reported to police, the driver refused to give his name to the boy.

The other car was found to be registered to Sacramento Vallejos, 2401 South Evergreen street, and struck a motorcycle belonging to George Cone, 1035 West Third street, at Third and Bush streets.

Rain Starts Rush For New Roofing

Another result of rain is an increase in the roofing business. Following are a list of persons who in the last several days ordered re-roofing on their homes, as reported by the city building department:

James D. Braden, 1112 N. Baker; F. G. McGrath, 1638 W. First; E. A. Cox, 423 1/2 S. Ross; George Newcomb, 1517 N. Main; L. M. DeShazo, 1124 S. Flower; J. J. Dwyer, 918 S. Garney; and W. B. Hampton, 1011 E. Chestnut.

Hundreds of friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smiley, pioneer residents of Santa Ana, pictured above, are planning to share with them the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, which will be an event of next Monday. The prominent couple, who have lived here since their marriage, are extending an open invitation to attend an informal reception at their home, 2800 North Flower street, between 3 and 7 p. m. Jan. 24.

Secret Rites Revealed To Friends

Mrs. H. E. Buerter entertained at a charming informal party last evening in her home, 501 South Broadway, in honor of her bride-elect daughter, Miss Mildred Buerter, who was showered with pretty pottery pieces.

As a complete surprise to all those present was the announcement by Miss Buerter that she had been secretly wed to Gordon L. Wilson in Yuma, Ariz., on Monday, Dec. 27. The surprise wedding was revealed when "tongue twisters" were rearranged, the last one giving the names of the young couple.

The recent bride was attractively gown for the party in a pretty blue crepe frock with a corsage of gardenias, presented to her by her new husband. Informal games filled the evening hours, and refreshments were served at the small tables.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Wilson, 1247 Cypress street, and is employed in Chicago. He came to Santa Ana for the Christmas holidays and it was then that the marriage took place. He and his bride were classmates and friends at Julia Lathrop Junior High school, later at Santa Ana High school, and have been betrothed for some time.

GARDEN SECTION HEARS TALK ON PLANTING

Spring planting and new developments in the plant world were explained to 50 members and guests of Ebells' Garden section yesterday afternoon by J. A. Gooch of the Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario.

Dividing the plants into groups, the speaker told of correct time and methods of planting bulbs, perennials, annuals, and roses. He told of the new Thomas Junior rose which is completely mildew-proof and evergreen. Two new gardenias, the Grandiflora and the Mystery, which may be grown in the sunlight, were listed for the members.

Mrs. J. E. Paul completed the program, telling of her recent trip through the Panama canal with stops in the Central American countries. She told of the beautiful vegetation in Guatemala and of finding bouquets of orchids in the market places for 25 cents.

On the hostess committee for the afternoon were Mrs. E. L. Hull, chairman, Mrs. J. L. Mc Bride, Mrs. C. H. Jeffrey, Mrs. George Perkins, Mrs. B. B. Kellogg, Mrs. J. C. Lamb.

APPEAR IN CONCERT MONDAY

Michael Sorensen, noted baritone, and Richard Tetley-Kardos, his talented piano accompanist, will appear as guest artists Monday before the Santa Ana Valley Ebells club.

FAMILY GROUP COMPLIMENTS VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gerrard entertained informally in their home, 2009 Victoria drive, last evening for a large family group as a compliment to Mrs. Gerrard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harmon, who have been visiting here from Roseburg, Ore.

Last night's affair took the form of an early buffet dinner served from the large dining room table. A centerpiece of blue Chinese forget-me-nots in a white bowl flanked by tall blue tapers in white candlesticks.

The group gathered about a blazing fire for the dinner, and later enjoyed several piano selections played by Mrs. Harmon. The evening was spent in chatting, since the visitors had planned to return to Oregon today. During their visit here they have made numerous trips through Southern California, and were accompanied to Imperial Valley by Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard.

Included in the intimate group last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard, Miss Phyllis Gerrard, Myron Gerrard, Myrtis Gerrard, Jack Gerrard, all of the home, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gerrard and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cottrell.

VOYAGER IS PARTY GUEST

Mrs. Austin Watts hosted a farewell party in her home, 409 Fulton avenue, Buena Park, on Tuesday evening.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrard, Miss Phyllis Gerrard, Myron Gerrard, Myrtis Gerrard, Jack Gerrard, all of the home, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gerrard and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cottrell.

Mrs. J. E. Paul completed the program, telling of her recent trip through the Panama canal with stops in the Central American countries. She told of the beautiful vegetation in Guatemala and of finding bouquets of orchids in the market places for 25 cents.

On the hostess committee for the afternoon were Mrs. E. L. Hull, chairman, Mrs. J. L. Mc Bride, Mrs. C. H. Jeffrey, Mrs. George Perkins, Mrs. B. B. Kellogg, Mrs. J. C. Lamb.

Musicians To Entertain Ebells

Unusually fine music is in store for members of Santa Ana Ebells club next Monday afternoon when they will be entertained by Michael Sorensen, noted baritone of the West, and Richard Tetley-Kardos, talented young pianist.

The former came to Southern California from Portland three years ago, and has since been chosen as soloist for two impressive Easter sunrise services, one at Los Angeles coliseum, and the other at Hollywood Bowl.

It is interesting to note that several years ago he came to Santa Ana as a boy soprano soloist with Whitney Boys' chorus from Portland, and at that time was a guest in the Goodwin home.

Tetley-Kardos is famous both as soloist and accompanist. He has concertized with many of the world's most famous artists, Lotte Lehmann, Gretta Stueckgold, Efrim Zimbalist, the selinsky duos, violinists, Tiesha Sidel, and others.

He broadcasts Sundays on the Joplin McDonald program, and is much in demand on concert stages of the West this season.

The appearance of two such fine entertainers is a distinct achievement for the local club.

PAST MATRONS ENJOY LUNCH SESSION

Past Matrons' association had an enjoyable luncheon meeting yesterday gathering as guests of Mrs. C. F. Dunphy, Mrs. J. W. McCormac, Miss Martha Whitson, and Mrs. Dora Pease at the Rossmore cafe.

After lunch, served at a long table decorated with poinsettias and cottonasters emphasized by vivid red bows, they adjourned to the Masonic temple lounge where Ella Strassberger conducted a brief meeting.

Readings were presented by Mrs. Minnie Holmes and Mrs. Maude Watson, and Mrs. Helen Lurker and Mrs. Anna Sevel were introduced as special guests.

Present were the Mesdames Minnie Adkinson, Kate Barker, Amber Burke, Frances Brooks, Nona Cloyes, Lulu Drake, C. S. Strassberger, Mae Thomas, Jeanette Terwilliger, Grace Wilson, Maude Watson, Elizabeth Lewis, Dr. Ada Henry, and Miss Martha Whitson.

MRS. CLARK HOSTESSES BUFFET SUPPER

When a group of friends gathered last evening for a customary pot-luck supper enjoyed each other in the charming home of Mrs. Alex Clark, 812 West Bishop street.

Pretty spring flowers had been arranged throughout the home, and especially lovely bowls of carnations on the buffet table. Following the dinner, the hostess showed her guests the many pretty articles in her layette. Informal chatting, needlework, and bridge occupied the evening hours.

Those present to enjoy Mrs. Clark's hospitality were Mrs. Bob Schwarm, Mrs. Verne Wilson, Mrs. John Thompson, Miss Melva Thorpe, Miss Henrietta Rurup, Miss Marjorie Haster, Miss Arden Murray, Miss Edna Wilson, Miss Nadeau Johnson, Miss Frances Crowther, Miss Margaret Blackwood.

About Folks

Guy Sutton of Des Moines, Iowa, who is in Southern California on a business trip, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson in their home, 421 South Broadway.

Judge Parker Wood will speak at the special entertainment program planned in conjunction with the annual mid-winter luncheon picnic to be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, on Saturday, Jan. 22.

QUICK FROSTING Sprinkle chopped dates, raisins, chocolate shot or grated sweet chocolate, nuts, coconut or candied fruit over the top of cake batter just before putting it into the oven. It will give the cake a tasty coating. Use half a cup of coating for the average-size cake.

KEEP FLAVORS SEPARATED Always store leftover vegetables in separate dishes in the refrigerator. Even though they are to be combined later, the flavors will be better.

FINGERNAIL POINTER Pack soap and cold cream under the finger nails when doing housework. It will protect the nails from stains.

Comus Names New Board At Dance

Election of a new board of directors for Comus club was of principal interest at last night's annual dinner dance of that monthly dancing group. Retiring and incoming boards will meet next week to name officers from their number.

Taking office last night were Mrs. Wayne Harrison, Mrs. Leon Dickey, Mrs. Dean Coliver, Lester Tubbs, John Cannon, and Claude Knox. Retiring officers include Fred Merker, Joe Daniger, Mrs. Lyle Anderson, and Mrs. Riley Huber, with Mrs. Harrison and Lester Tubbs as holdover members.

In the absence of Mr. Merker, president for the past year, his place was filled by Mr. Tubbs, escorting both Mrs. Tubbs and Mrs. Merker. The latter wore a shimmering rainbow-hued frock of tulle with violets in her hair, while Mrs. Tubbs was in black chiffon with a sequin bodice.

Other officers and wives who acted as hosts and hostesses for the evening were seated at the tables, beautifully decorated with pansies and sweetpeas in blue bowls with blue tapers. Mrs. Frank Miller, who retains her office of treasurer, wore a frock of vivid henna lame accented by garlands of black and white.

Table decorations varied in color and various pastel papers offset by the beautiful flowers from the Merker garden made a truly lovely sight. The effect was created by Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Merker, and Mrs. Miller, who did the decorating.

Before tables were cleared for dancing, members enjoyed two beautiful songs presented by one of their club, Harry Welch, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Welch. There followed a program of dances given by Jane Potts, Marian Kelenberg, and Charlotte Varcoe. They are pupils of Mrs. Gilbert Goodell of Fullerton and were presented through the courtesy of Gloria Gaylord of Santa Ana.

PEGASUS MEMBERS MEET IN VISEL HOME

Personal autobiographies was the center of interest yesterday afternoon when members of Pegasus club met in the home of Mrs. Nelson Visel at 220 Cypress street.

The hostess served a delicious dessert course early in the afternoon, following which members read original contributions. A letter was read from Mrs. Malcolm Macurda, who is now making her home at 461 Len Rey avenue, El Centro. Mrs. Jesse Wolfe was appointed to fill the position of vice president made vacant by Mrs. Macurda's departure.

Two guests present during the afternoon were Miss Gertrude Andrews and Mrs. Harry Brackett. Mrs. Brackett read two original poems, "House With Shining Windows" and "What Is a Song?"

Members present with their selections included Mrs. Frank Lansdown, "A Rainy Romance," Mrs. George Bond, "Reminiscences," Mrs. Rose Jackson, "A Pennsylvania Dutch Girl," Mrs. Charles Fuller, "The Adventures of Emmaline."

Mrs. Frank Was, "Chapter I, The Poet Inborn," Mrs. Glenn Tidball, "Lucky Lady," Mrs. Justus Birtcher, "Another Alibi," Mrs. Elizabeth Foote, "All the World's a Stage," Mrs. Nelson Visel, "My Adventure."

Mrs. Jesse Wolfe spoke on her trip to the tomb of Confucius and showed snapshots of the trip. Mrs. Emily Munro was also present.

GINGERBREAD TOPPING Creamed cheese mixed with chopped dates and nuts makes a tasty topping for freshly baked gingerbread or it can be used as a filling for two layers of chocolate or spice cake.

RESTORING BISCUITS To reheat leftover rolls or biscuits, dip them quickly into hot water and bake them four minutes in a hot oven. Serve immediately.

Correspondents Offer Suggestions for Handling Mother-in-Law Problem

Our morning mail is sprinkled with suggestions from my correspondents as to what to do, or not to do, about a seemingly obstreperous mother-in-law. The wife who signed herself "Just Wondering" and asked for opinions as to whether her husband loves her when he will not stand up for her when his mother makes "catty" remarks to her will be benefited, I am sure, by these fair viewpoints from our impartial readers.

Thanks, column friends, for your prompt action in coming to the rescue in our latest domestic problem presented before our court of public opinion.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Psychoanalysis, like misery, "acquaints a man with strange bedfellows." A wife, "wondering" how to combat an obstreperous mother-in-law, described her as the "sc" of person listed in the old limerick of a man not particularly young, who once when his nerves were unstrung, put his mother unseen in a sausage machine and canned her and labeled her tongue. Whereupon, an scoop makes an incision in the column, with the agility and animosity of an air-drill, boring holes in a defenseless husband and son whenever did him any harm.

How, in a brief letter, may one assume that a woman is abused because she admits that she "has feelings." Haven't we all? And do we not each react in an individual manner to a personal problem? By what right may it be assumed that a woman described as possessing a sharp and rude speech, be labeled reprehensible otherwise? She may be rude, mean, despicable—a character unworthy of the respect of anyone at all. The son might be a worm into the bargain. But what could be done to alter it? A worm does not change specie when it is stepped on. A mean dog will not improve with whipping, after the whip is removed.

Could it honestly be assumed from his wife's brief letter, that she intended any such judgment set upon her family? She said nothing of the mother's life or her circumstances—whether she had combated a hard existence, or whether she was born tough—only a mere mention of a rough exterior as expressed in crude speech. What chances for refinement had she experienced? What had she done for her son, who might be justified in trying to keep peace because he knew her good traits as well as her bad, much better than his wife? Is she the type of woman who cannot keep her voice out of her thoughts? As a woman who "speaks her mind" brusquely—who is what she is without guile? Salt is a bit harsh taken alone. But it adds flavor. Earth needs it . . . and provides it.

Mild and keen men exist in this world in numbers sufficient to make life a little more bearable than it would be without them. No man worth the powder to blow him up, would not avoid a woman's quarrel if he could. Thousands of people, including his creator, have loved old Rip Van Winkle. As many more should know and love Mr. Polly, as real a human being as Rip (created by H. G. Wells). Not merely fictional, these, but living men such as we all know, whose being makes the pathway of life easier going.

LONG BEACH GIRL VISITS Miss Helen Wiesseman had as houseguest in her home at 527 West 19th street one night recently, Miss Louise Rehbeck of Long Beach. Other guests at dinner were Miss Muriel Matzen and Miss Katherine Chapman, who later filled in the bridge foursome.

Miss Wiesseman returned to Long Beach with her guest to attend an alumnae dinner there.

Dozen Guests Entertained At Party

Pleasant hospitality was extended yesterday afternoon by Mrs. J. E. Liebig, always a charming hostess, when she entertained a dozen friends at luncheon and contract.

Ranunculi in glowing tones predominated in her center bouquet of spring flowers at the lunch hour. Later, high score prizes were awarded.

Mrs. Don Andrews received high prize, while Mrs. Howard Timmons was awarded second.

Guests of Mrs. Liebig in her home at 820 Spurgeon street were Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Don L. Andrews, Mrs. Howard Raby, Mrs. I. F. Landis, Mrs. J. B. Roberts, Mrs. Anna Richards, Mrs. Howard Timmons, Mrs. Charles Kendall, Mrs. R. C. Holmes, Mrs. Cotton Mather and Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld.

DENNISS HOME SETTING FOR GAY PARTY

A medley of beautiful blossoms decorated the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dennis, 932 Louise street, when they entertained a group of friends Tuesday evening.

Vivid orange, yellow, and orchid gallardias were set off by colorful calendulas and calceolais, and a merry treasure hunt and other games were played before the blazing fireplace fire.

Prize-winners during the evening's contests were Mrs. Earl Vipond, Richard Heitschusen, Mr. Roy Rowe, and Earl Vipond.

A late supper course was served at small tables to Mr. and Mrs. David Gillison, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sawtelle, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sowers, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Vipond, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heitschusen, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rowe, Master Charles Sowers, Miss Dorothy Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis.

LEADERS HIT REGIONAL PLANNING

WASHINGTON. (P)—Two congressional leaders voiced conflicting views yesterday on the administration's proposal to set up seven regional planning agencies.

Representative Whittington (D., Miss.), chairman of the house flood control committee, told the rivers and harbors congress the proposal was an unnecessary duplication of existing agencies.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.) said he saw "no objection" to the regional planning proposals.

"When we established the new national banking system we regionalized it by setting up 12 federal reserve banks," he said.

"We also regionalized the Farm Credit administration by establishing offices in areas convenient to the public affected."

Barkley asserted there was no intention in the regional planning program to take away from congress the power to decide what projects should be undertaken.

He appealed for a unified national program that would make the nation's natural resources "the servants of the people."

He said "The day of railroad building is over in America" and predicted the nation in the future would make greater use of its rivers and inland waters for commerce.

Whittington said there is a demand for a new flood control act at the present session of congress.

MAE'S TROUBLES DOUBLE

Buoyant Blonde Sued Again

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Standing head: Mae West sued.

The buoyant blonde was made defendant in a suit yesterday by Mark Linder, who asks an accounting of $1,000,000 over the film, "She Done Him Wrong."

Joan Storm, another scribe, demanded $10,000, alleging copyright infringement of the now famous "Adam and Eve" radio skit.

Linder's complaint says that he was induced to sell a playlet for the nominal sum of $25,000 to Paramount pictures, named co-defendant with Mae, and that the playlet was the basis for "She Done Him Wrong." He declared that an agreement between him and Mae provided he should receive 50 per cent of any royalties.

He believes his share is $1,000,000. Other recent Western difficulties: the motion picture company for which she works was severed from its releasing organization when Paramount notified Emanuel Cohen that it was terminating his contract.

The city planning commission refused Mae a permit to operate a restaurant in an old railroad car. Her representative told the commission that she would erect a "suitable building" for her steak house.

that would make provision for the Ohio valley, New England and other areas.

"And the army engineers should undertake this program."

He attributed the current business recession to "lack of political leadership."

Actress Wins $10,000 Damages

SAN DIEGO. (P)—Dorothy Sebastian, Hollywood film actress, today held a $10,000 judgment against operators of a San Diego hotel. The judgment was returned by a superior court jury yesterday as the climax of a $250,000 damage suit.

In her complaint charging malice, Miss Sebastian said the hotel managers caused her to be arrested and tried on charges of defrauding an innkeeper. She was exonerated.

PAYROLLS IN STATE SHOW DECREASE

SACRAMENTO. (P)—Employment and total payrolls in California decreased in December as compared to that month in 1936 but average weekly earnings were higher, state labor Commissioner Edward L. Nolan reported.

Nolan based his conclusions on a survey made of 1717 representative manufacturing establishments employing more than 50 per cent of the state's factory workers. Employment dropped, he said, 4.9 per cent.

A boost of 2.7 per cent was noted in wages with an average of $29.20 weekly. Employment declined 6.6 per cent during the month, the greatest loss since 1932, he added.

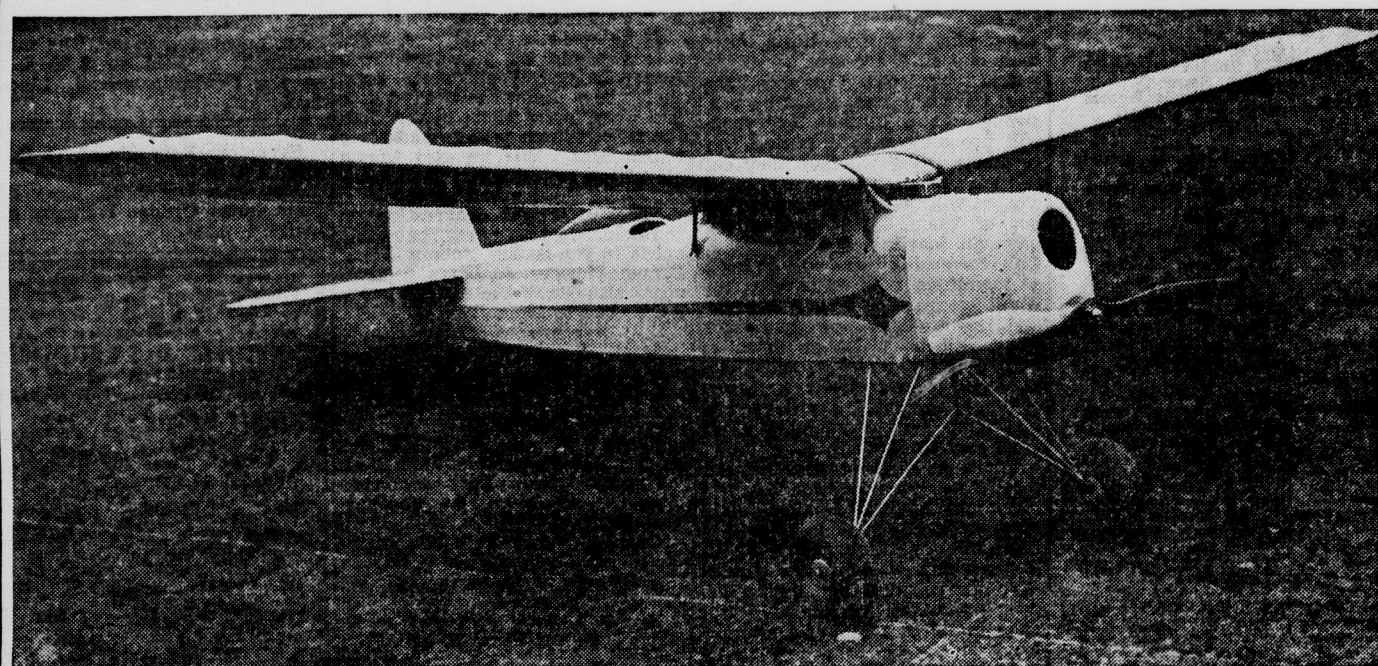

Electricity Tells Age of Fish

WASHINGTON. (P)—The bureau of fisheries announced today it has perfected a device which determines the age of a fish by electricity.

Technologists said the invention can determine the exact day any fish was caught, by measuring changes in the fish's chemical structure.

THE MOUNTAIN BOYS

By PAUL WEBB

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

By JOHN HIX

THE MURDEROUS BEAUTY...
Temetveny castle, towering alone on a hill near Csejte, Hungary, was the home in 1610 of the last degenerate descendant of the celebrated Hungarian Bathory family. Last of the line, which included five Transylvanian princes and a Polish king, was beautiful Elizabeth Bathory. Strange as it seems, behind her lovely face a pitifully sadistic mind worked—a mind distorted with ideas of self-love, hardened to the world outside. Elizabeth, gazing at her own loveliness in the mirror of her boudoir, fought against the thought that one day she would grow old and ugly. She thought of the gay young girls of Csejte who played and laughed in the forests that surrounded Temetveny castle. If she could only capture their beauty for herself—she would be young forever!

Spurred by this sadistic thought, Elizabeth one day in 1610 managed to lure 300 girls to the subterranean rooms of her castle. There, according to contemporary legal records, Elizabeth actually had the 300 girls murdered, so that she might bathe in their blood to capture immortal youth and beauty.

WE HAVE A FIVE-ROOM HOME YOU CAN AFFORD
Located on a lot 60x135, in a community of entirely new homes, all owner occupied, this home is a model of convenience and good taste. Living room is 18x21 with a real fireplace, and two doors lead to what you may build into a wonderful outdoor living room. Hallway connecting to the two bedrooms contains two immense linen closets, and the bath is, of course, complete to even the shower. The bedrooms are 12x13 each, and a window on the side of the house affords perfect ventilation and light. A large clothes closet in each of the bedrooms. The place is connected to the living room by French doors, and is big enough, if you wish, for a full-size dining room table. Kitchen contains plenty of convenient cupboard space, the sink, a recessed and ventilated ice box space, canopied stove and plenty of electric outlets. Service porch is 8x10, with built-in broom closet, laundry tub, ironing board and room for washer and ironer if you want. Double garage, with cement driveway to street, complete the building. Best place of stucco construction, and built and financed under F. H. A. specifications and terms. You will be surprised at how easily you may own this. See Ed J. Hensley, Real Estate Medway City, or phone Westminster 8361 for all particulars.

3-BEDROOM, frame, hardwood floors, new roof, and paint inside and out, paving in, only $2750, terms.

Santa Ana Journal

Published daily except Sunday by John P. Scripps Newspapers at 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Editor: E. F. Ellstrom, business manager. Telephone 8600 for news, circulation and advertising departments.
Subscription rates: By mail, payable in advance, $7.00 per year, $3.50 for six months, $1.75 for three months, or 65c a month. By carrier, 65c a month or if paid in advance, same rates as mail. From newsboys and news stands, 3c a copy. Entered as second-class matter May 1, 1935, at the postoffice of Santa Ana, California, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Something Constructive to Do

A Mailbag contributor in yesterday's Journal eloquently argues the need for prompt community action (presumably through the agency of county officials) on the project to create decent low-cost housing for sub-marginal laborers.

The Wagner-Steagall act set up an effective federal housing authority and made funds available for such construction. Governor Merriam—foolishly, we think—killed by a pocket veto an enabling act which the last legislature passed whereby California cities, counties and other subdivisions might have taken advantage of this money. Nathan Strauss, federal administrator, recently appealed to 18 states, of which California is one, to enact needed legislation of exactly this type. Now apparently Governor Merriam has undergone a change of heart, inasmuch as he has indicated he will include in the agenda for a special session of the legislature the enactment of a housing bill. According to the latest Sacramento information, the special session is to be called for "some time next month."

If Orange county is going to be in readiness to proceed on one of these greatly-to-be-desired housing enterprises, there is much that should be done now by the county, in advance of the legislative action. Among these steps, as suggested by the provisions of the Wagner-Steagall act, would be the making of an estimate of the amount needed for administrative purposes during the first year; work through the congressman to have a sufficient sum of building funds earmarked for future use here; a tentative selection of a local housing commission which could later be officially installed when the act is passed but which could operate unofficially in the meantime; and a study of what local assistance might be given in order to induce the government to allot the desired funds. The local assistance, as The Journal understands the plan, might take the form of a donation by the county of lands on which the buildings would be erected, tax exemption or some degree of tax reduction, or a partial financing.

A great many other communities in California and in other states are thoroughly alive to this housing matter and are ready to absorb large sums of the money which the government has made available. Unless we of Orange county are equally alert and equally prepared, we cannot hope to obtain our share.

Our Secretary Hull refused to recognize King Victor Emmanuel as emperor of Ethiopia. He just can't mistake him for Haile Selassie.

Strange Things At County Hospital

When the grand jury finishes probing the courthouse "animal act," it might turn its X-ray to advantage on the county hospital.

Things have been happening to give that institution a black eye.

Baby Raymond Amaz burned to death in his crib there two days ago.

Ralph Carnes broke his leg again there a month ago when doctors told him to stand on it.

Superintendent Zaiser might have a satisfactory explanation for such events. Accidents happen even in the best regulated institutions.

But a county hospital is the last place they should be allowed to happen.

If the grand jury makes an investigation, it should be a real one.

Patients, ex-patients and friends and relatives of patients with complaints or praise should be questioned.

The type of investigation which calls for merely interrogating doctors and nurses and visiting the tax-supported institution at some pre-announced time is a waste of time and money.

It is estimated the war in China so far has cost $7,000,000,000 in American money. So far, however, it isn't charged to our account.

Why Not Reduce Sales Tax?

Harry B. Riley (an old Orange county boy), from his spot of vantage as state controller, makes a sensible suggestion.

He wants the next legislature to "grant relief to our overburdened taxpayers in the form of a reduction in taxes rather than endeavoring to find new ways to spend the estimated surplus."

This surplus will amount to $31,000,000 by July 1, 1939, it is estimated.

Harry is on the right track.

The legislature should cut taxes instead of spending the $31,000,000.

One good place to cut is on the sales tax. It could be chopped from 3 to 2½ cents, with the blessings of practically everybody.

If that Memphis minister can really get along without eating, he may as well turn in his social security ticket.

Progress

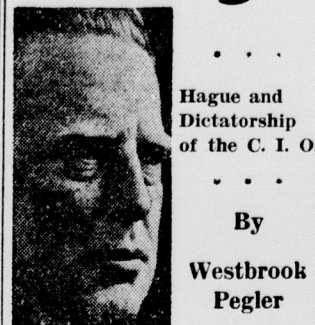

Progress, flowing smoothly along the time stream, often isn't apparent to us because we, too, are moving along in the current of time.

If you want to get a sight that will make your eyes pop, pick up some encyclopedia, or science book, published even as recently as 20 years ago.

When you see the airplanes built like box-kites, when you see the cumbersome "wireless" of that day, the strange looking automobiles, the lack of mention of any such things as neon, electric refrigeration, or oil-burning furnaces, you'll be jolted into a realization that we live in an entirely new world today, thanks to progress and science.

If things get much worse China will break off diplomatic relations with Japan and recall her ambassador.

Far Enough

Hague and Dictatorship of the C. I. O.

By Westbrook Pegler

Conceding the truth of all that has been said and written about the Hague dictatorship in Jersey City, I would like to speculate on the state of affairs that would exist there if the C. I. O. were to win a complete victory, organize the town as thoroughly as Frank Hague has organized it and elect a complete ticket of C. I. O. candidates, including all judges.

Would the C. I. O. be any more tolerant than Hague has been or would Jersey City find she had merely traded one coercive government for another?

We know that the C. I. O. leaders like judges who believe as they do and learn as far to their side as Mr. Hague's judges lean toward Fascism. They call that obedience to the mandates of the people and an expression of Democracy. They frankly demand that Mr. Roosevelt be allowed to appoint to supreme court enough men pledged to his program to insure the confirmation of any measure he might propose.

PEOPLE TO BLAME

In the present state of affairs the people elected Hague and his judges knowing what they stood for, and the judges ran true to form. But in this case the C. I. O. people hold that the election returns were no mandate and that the judges' compliance with the turns is a foul desecration of the sacred heritage.

But it seems idle to argue that the people did not know what Hague and his candidates stood for. They knew from long experience and still they voted for him and his.

It is true that the vote was organized and coerced by political job pressure and so was not entirely free. But we know that this sort of thing is common in our politics, and we know also that in the internal affairs of the C. I. O. the union politicians organize the vote. We also have seen that intimidation and coercion are ready weapons of the C. I. O. for its members boast of having "ganged up" on individuals who disagreed with them and of having brought economic pressure to bear on business firms to deter them from doing business with firms which the union had struck.

This seems to parallel the intimidation charged against Frank Hague. It is complained that he has dissuaded property owners from renting halls to the C. I. O. by an implied threat to raise their taxes and slap "violations" on their property.

That is familiar practice, too, in our politics, and nobody was more adept at intimidation than the late Huey Long, who somehow never really alarmed the current crusaders for civil liberties in Jersey City even though he kicked several students out of Louisiana State university for daring to criticize him in their paper. In that case not only freedom of speech was violated but freedom of the press and intellectual freedom as well.

The C. I. O. was not involved, however, so the whole affair was laughed off as a ribald row between some prankish juveniles and a mischievous but good-hearted politician.

WHAT WOULD C. I. O. DO?

Would the C. I. O. take steps to deter property owners from renting halls to an outright Fascist organization? If it had Frank Hague's control of Jersey City? I go by the declared position of a prominent C. I. O. leader that this is not a game but a fight, that those who are not with the C. I. O. are its enemies, and that it is presumably to be treated as such, and that freedom of expression can be carried to extremes. I am guided also by the reminder sent to President Roosevelt that the C. I. O. expected him to be a party to a campaign contribution.

And, judging by the C. I. O.'s coercive action elsewhere, I am led to expect that if the hall owner rented his place to a Fascist group the C. I. O. administration of Jersey City would destroy him with a howl as just as effectively as Frank Hague might do it with a tax increase or a "violation."

The demand on President Roosevelt for a partial treatment suggests that the C. I. O. judges in Jersey City would be expected to sing for their supper and that in any case involving opposition the defendant would receive about the same dealing that Hague's police and judges have given the C. I. O.

Altogether the row is reminiscent of two dips who ran up to the policeman, one yelling, "He glommed my stickpin!" and the other, "He got my watch!"

Judge Stump

Dear Judge: Is there anyone who hasn't puzzled over what the New Year's eve, and throw the tie with it—into the garbage can with your resolutions. STUMP.

Nope. It's almost as bad a problem as getting rid of the necktie your sister-in-law gave you. The way to do that, of course, is throw a big party on New Year's eve, and throw the tie with it—into the garbage can with your resolutions. STUMP.

If things get much worse China will break off diplomatic relations with Japan and recall her ambassador.

Three plans for the hospital to be built on the county poor farm were submitted today for consideration of county supervisors. The plans were referred to Supervisor Smith and County Physician Wehrly, who will examine them and report back at the next meeting.

More than 100 people turned out to bid on property offered for sale at an auction conducted by Tax Collector J. C. Lamb. Highest price paid for a single lot was $50. All the property had been acquired by the state for delinquent taxes.

General F. H. Case was elected president of the chamber of commerce yesterday by the new board of directors and promptly named his standing committees. Because its membership was largest, the harbor committee is expected to be active in promoting development of Newport bay this year. L. L. Shaw is chairman of the harbor group.

WASHINGTON.—Reports of a "grave situation" at Vera Cruz, Mexico, has caused state department officials to seriously consider sending more warships to reinforce the cruiser Denver at Acapulco, it was learned today.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

The other day I read an article in a Hollywood paper that said that outside of newspapers, there's no medium in the world that has as powerful an influence on the people as moving pictures. The article said that the people in the smallest towns can see and hear how people in other parts of the country live, act and talk.

Not long ago, an aunt and an uncle of mine were sittin' in a theater down home and suddenly my aunt turned to my uncle and says "Hod, after all this picture shows you've seen, I can't understand why you don't kiss like Clark Gable."

My uncle says, "Well, there's two reasons for that. In the first place, I don't get Clark Gable's salary and, in the second place, Clark Gable ain't kissin' you."

Howdy, folks! Eastern automobile companies are planning to manufacture midget cars, it is reported.

A midget car would be of little use in Delhi at the present time. It would fall into one of these holes in the roads and never be heard of again.

A really small car would have one advantage, however. You couldn't take your wife's relatives out driving Sunday afternoons.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Cruisers sent to Singapore likely to stay there, work with British; Roosevelt also has French invitation to use Indo-Chinese navy base; rail laborer would and A. F. L.-CIO dispute with three-way supreme council; Bennett jockeying with Jackson to get nomination for N. Y. governor.

WASHINGTON.—Don't be at all surprised if the three U. S. cruisers sent to Singapore, for the February opening of the giant British naval base, do not return to the United States.

It has not been definitely decided as yet, but they probably will remain in oriental waters—presumably near Singapore—until the U. S. cruiser Louisville, which is accompanying them to Australia, may proceed north to Singapore and remain there.

All this is in line with Roosevelt's Far Eastern strategy, previously disclosed in this column, of closer cooperation with the British. It is one of the most important of all administration policies.

FRENCH NAVAL BASE

Furthermore, it will cause no surprise if another squadron of U. S. cruisers should visit the new French naval base at Point Saint-Jacques in French Indo-China. This is equipped with large dry-docks, and will be one of the most important naval stations in the Far East when completed, which will be soon.

How far in advance Roosevelt envisioned the present Chinese-Japanese crisis can be gathered from his conversations with Edouard Herriot, ex-Premier of France, back in April of 1933. Herriot had come over to discuss preparations for the London economic conference, but Roosevelt spent part of the time inquiring about French naval plans in the Orient. One question he asked was how soon Saigon (chief port of Indo-China) could be developed.

Herriot replied that it was not being developed but that Point Saint-Jacques was, and thereupon invited the use of the French naval base by U. S. warships.

BUZZY DALL

Mrs. Roosevelt has brought back from Seattle a new story about Buzzy, her lively 8-year-old grandson. Several weeks after Buzzy entered school in Seattle, a young neighbor told his mother: "There is a new boy in our class. His name is Buzzy Dall. I like him very much, but you know I don't think he is very truthful. Why, he told me he has fed live bears out of his hand and his grandfather is President of the United States."

Note—Accompanying his grandfather, the President, through Yellowstone park last fall, Buzzy did feed cookies to the bears along the road.

LABOR ROW

Keep an eye on that secret plan of Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, for peace between the A. F. of L. and the CIO. It offers a real solution of the controversy and you will hear a lot more about it.

Briefly, here is Whitney's proposal: The A. F. of L. and the CIO would preserve their present independent status, but would join with the Big Four rail brotherhoods in a "Consultative Council" on which each of the three groups would have equal representation. This council would act as a sort of supreme court in deciding questions of jurisdiction and other controversial issues.

The brotherhoods, affiliated with neither A. F. of L. nor CIO, would act as the balance wheel between the two. Each would be independent and autonomous in its own sphere, yet united through the bond of the council.

In addition to its practicability, there is another potent factor favoring Whitney's plan. It comes from an independent quarter on good terms with both battle fronts.

TIT FOR TAT

The scramble for the Democratic nomination for governor of New York is warming up.

The other day the Young Democrats of New York City invited U. S. Attorney General Robert Jackson, the President's choice, to address their annual banquet on Feb. 25. Jackson accepted and the Young Democrats started preparations for a big state political rally.

At once New York State Attorney General John Bennett, long a gubernatorial aspirant, got busy with a rival show. Through friendly old-line Brooklyn leaders, Bennett arranged to have a testimonial dinner given in his honor on the same night Jackson is scheduled to address the Young Democrats.

Note—A dark-horse aspirant for the nomination is Adolf Berle, former Roosevelt brain-truster and intimate friend of Rex Tugwell and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia. No hint of Berle's candidacy has yet been made public, but he is the secret La Guardia-Brain Trust choice.

SUPREME COURT ETIQUETTE

A Washington law student, who drives a taxicab to pay his way through school, carried Justice McReynolds to the supreme court the other day. The student immediately recognized the justice and, in the informal manner of Washington taxi-men, started a conversation.

"This is a real honor for me, Judge," he said. "I'm taking law and I hope to practice before the supreme court sometime."

"Then you ought to know, young man," observed McReynolds drily, "that I am not a 'judge.' I am an associate justice."

The youngster subsided for a few minutes, then tried again. "Mr. Justice," he asked, "what do you think of this idea of Mrs. Roosevelt's of appointing a woman to the supreme court?"

"I don't think much of it," "Why not, sir?"

"Well," replied McReynolds, "how would you like to be tried by a woman?"

Bright Moments

As the venturesome American statesman were gathered to sign the Declaration of Independence, John Hancock said to Charles Carroll: "Will you sign?" "Most willingly," said Carroll. One bystander was heard to remark, "There goes two million with the stroke of a pen." But the best quip of all was when someone said in an undertone: "Oh, Carroll, you will get off all right; there are so many Charles Carrolls."

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So contribute to the formation of public opinion. The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

WHY DELAY?

To the Editor: If Orange county does not act quickly, the golden opportunity of providing low-cost housing to its sub-marginal laborers under the Federal Housing Act will have passed by. Recent news dispatches carried the information that Los Angeles is all set to secure $15,000,000 of the $300,000,000 federal grant the moment the state enabling act passes, at the special session, but that $150,000,000 of this first grant is already allocated.

Other cities, counties and states are asking—why do we delay? Has our congressman been instructed to earmark a half-million or so for us? Have we taken any steps to comply with the law? Are inertia and private quarrelling to deprive us of this golden opportunity to make our county a show-place of the country for decent, beautiful, working-class homes?

Everyone stands to win—taxpayers, real estate values, contractors, supply firms, laborers, financial houses, tourist interests! What is the delay?

Perhaps you can answer these questions—or get the answer for us from our public officials.

AN IMPATIENT CITIZEN.

CITY OF LOVE

To the Editor: As I see Santa Ana: It's a wonderful city. The friendliest people, the most courteous business men and women. The many nice churches and schools. The best preachers and teachers. A clean city council. Good police protection and many more things which I have not room to mention. Our daily papers so clean and full of news. Everything appeals to the visiting public. Our hospital and doctors modern, up-to-date in every way.

I think we have the best county hospital in the state. So sanitary and comfortable. The best nurses and doctors. Good food and plenty of it. I've never been a patient there but have been a regular visitor for several years and know what I say is true. Our patients go there free. People who could not afford a paid hospital. They should appreciate what they get. Counting nurses' care, doctors' care, hospital care (to say nothing about operative cases) the amount per patient per month would be not less than $100. This is paid by the taxpayers.

But our Mr. Taxpayer must go to a paid hospital when he is sick. He is not admitted at the county hospital as that is for non-taxpayers without a job, and they should be taught to appreciate same.

I hear not a word but praise for our undertakers. They get the last chance at us. I will say this: They can make our loved one's body look beautiful after death and that is something.

Our doctors and preachers give the best they have in services. One treats the body; the other the soul. Let's look at Santa Ana with clear eyes and a pure heart and see its beauty as God-given.

If we will elect God-fearing people to office, we can take the pollution out of politics. Then what love and peace and understanding will abide with us.

Let's love one another as God loves us and see the fruits thereof.

OVERSEAS ARMY?

To the Editor: A recent statement by Gen. Malin Craig of the army general staff shows clearly how completely contrary to the point of view of the American people is the attitude of those who are determining our military policy. Gen. Craig stated:

"A strength of 165,000 is considered the minimum number to provide adequate overseas garrisons, and to perform the many tasks in the continental United States that devolve upon the regular army as a nucleus of our military establishment."

The people of this country wholeheartedly want a defense policy based on defense of the United States, and not to try "to provide adequate overseas garrisons" for the defense of our interests in other parts of the world. Gen. Craig states that we need 3000 more soldiers to defend our foreign possessions.

Those who think that our army and navy are there for the purpose of defending the United States, take heed from Gen. Craig. The defense of the United States is only a small part of their purpose. Their main purpose is to have an army and navy big enough to fight all over the world to try to protect American interests, and that means business interests.

STATES HIS WANTS

To the Editor: We have endured with some impatience a nice, long depression. We have enjoyed a lovely little recession. Now please let us have a grand and glorious resuscitation.

LICENSE PLATES "CAL"

To the Editor: Why do the 1938 license plates of the exempt cars or the public service plates have our state's name completely spelled out, and why does the 1938 plate issued to John Citizen have Cal? Fine advertisement this!

NEW YORK.—Thoughts while strolling: Why people sometimes turn to Communism—Elsa Maxwell's coming out party for Cole Porter's broken limbs just out of a cast. Cultural notes: Gene Tunney cries the correct "Brava!" when women stars triumph at first nights.

Swell coiffure: Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brunette Bob Benchley's mustache looks bluish. Duluth sounds like a nice place. Goo Tunney's crying a rage. Most radio commentators would profit studying the delivery of Bryan Field, of the race courses. Wide-eyed Martha Deane window snooping.

Donald Duck's squawking sounds like Rube Goldberg's that baby carriage scene in the Folies. Society's grocer: Eddie Reeves, Jules Brulater with feathered head-dress would make a swell model for an Indian chief. The most publicized of the heiresses: Gloria Baker.

Democracy among the swells: Mrs. John Hay Whitney's nickname of Liz and her husband's of JoJo. The astrological Myra Kingsley is almost a double for Ina Claire. Fay King, the self-effacing cartoon lady. Good ad for the hotel lobby—the well-fed looking Oscar.

Memory: The string of red peppers on the kitchen wall. Dick Berlin can fatten up and thin down quicker than anything. One of these days some genius will begin writing the dailiness of New York as Pepsys did of London—and we will have a new and needed type of columnist.

Not all the handsome boys have been lassoed by the movies. The business world has its Robert Taylor. Conspicuous is Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., new head of the U. S. Steel corporation. Any producer would sign him for the Heart Interest. Thomas Watson, the industrialist, is the perfect type for the role he plays in real life—the commanding middle-aged figure in big business. Bruce Barton, if caught by the camera ten years ago, might have been cast with the reigning Garbo. John Baragwanath, mining engineer and husband of Neysa McMein, could make Adolphe Menjou sit up in one of those devil-may-care parts.

The dangers of over-exploitation were strikingly stressed in the skyrocket career of the strip tease dancer, Gypsy Rose Lee. Out of burlesque beginnings, she arose a headline topic discussed almost as much as any woman of her time save Wally Simpson. From the continuous burlesque, she went like a shot to a featured role in the Winter Garden and from there to the inevitable Hollywood with gigantic three-sheeting. She was daintily paragonized in the jottings from the west coast. Then, somehow the publicity avalanche came to a full stop. She was asked to change her name. There were reports her contracts were not to be renewed. The clouds were gathering for that dreaded rumble of oblivion, "the thunders of silence!"

New York friends of Amos Carter and M. B. Winter do not worry about marketing for holiday turkeys. Each year they are supplied by the Texas publisher and the advertising chief, Carter sends the smoked variety—which the top trenchermen rate as most expensive of the holiday fare. Winter raises his on his broad acres in Maryland. In a like manner Lee Olwell remembers friends yearly with a brace of pheasants he kills himself. And then Major Bowes, who shares the bounty of his weekly radio food harvest among friends and various hospitals. There is a special truck used only for such deliveries.

Those perky snack bars with modernistic fronts, circular counters and high short-backed chairs. French fashion, increase with the recession. I notice one on lower Lexington called "Place de la Concorde" which has the latest issues of Paris Midi and Excelsior on hand. Still another is tucked in the basement of an exclusive block on the Gold Coast. They seem to have only a cocktail hour and nightclub trade. Indeed the wrong people dropping in are discouraged.

Foot note of an ex-horror: I used to be one of those intrepid Ajaxes who, during a storm, stood smart aleck like at the open window laughing, ha, ha, when the lightning frolicked. But a few months ago I saw a bolt cleave a giant oak a quarter of a mile away in Central Park. Since then I won't even sneak a peek at a storm.

Remarkable Remarks

Joe Louis will beat Schmeling next June. Tell you why? If you walk down a dark street sometime and fall in a hole, well, the next time you walk down, you're careful. Tommy Farr, English heavyweight.
